Nixon to turn over additional tapes, dictations

WASHINGTON (AP) – President Nixon announced today that he will turn over to a federal court additional personal notes and dictation belts and further reels of White House tapes in an effort to clear up "once and for all" doubts about two crucial Watergate conversations.

The White House announced two weeks ago that subpoenaed tapes of the two conversations did not exist. Today, a White House lawyer said a subpoenaed recording supposedly dictated by Nixon did not exist.

In an announcement, Nixon said he has also agreed that a court-approved independent expert "employing the most advanced technological methods can examine all tapes in question for any evidence of alteration to the tapes."

Nixon said he is taking these steps to "help determine the substance of all nine conversations subpoenaed by the court."

Watergate prosecutors had subpoenaed nine White House Watergate-related tape recordings and allied documents.

Nixon said "there is no question in my mind but that the open court hearing, now being conducted, will demonstrate to the court's satisfaction the truth of our statements that these conversations were never recorded."

He referred to a four-minute talk with former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell on June 20, 1972 and a 55-minute session with former White House counsel John W. Dean III on April 15, 1973.

The White House has told the court that these conversations were never recorded — the Mitchell one because it was on a phone not hooked into the taping system, and the Dean one because a recording reel ran out of tape.

The White House announcements that two of the nine subpoeaned tapes never existed led to a hearing before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

Nixon's announcement today marked his first major step in a newly announced effort to tell his side of the Watergate affair and attempt to clear up questions.

He presented his statement at a 90-minute breakfast meeting with members of the Republican Coordinating Committee — the first of a series of meetings he plans to hold this week with all of the Republican members of Congress and some Democratic congressmen as well.

Nixon said that since coming to office he has maintained a personal diary file which consists of notes he personally took during meetings and of dictation belts on which he recorded recollections.

Nixon said he has located a dictation belt he recorded on the evening of June 20, 1972, which included references to the telephone call with Mitchell and he is going to submit that to the court.

10 hurt in 6 auto accidents

Ten persons were injured in six area traffic accidents over the weekend, the highway patrol reported today.

Sherman Reeves, 20, of Bloomfield received head cuts Saturday at 3 a.m. on Route M eight miles northeast of Puxico when his automobile came over a hill, ran off the road, struck a tree and overturned.

He was taken to Veterans Hospital in Poplar Bluff for treatment.

John Wood, 19, of Indianapolis, Ind., received a minor shoulder injury at 6:30 a.m. Saturday on Highway 67 eight miles south of Fredericktown when his car ran off the road and overturned.

He was taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital in Fredericktown.

Two persons were injured at 9 p.m. Saturday on Oriole Road three miles north of Cape Girardeau when a car driven by Louis Keil, 21, of St. Louis ran off the road and overturned.

Injured in the accident were Darrel Tucker, 20, of St. Charles and James Brendel, 21, of St. Louis. Both received minor injuries and were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

An accident at 6:05 p.m. Sunday on a gravel road eight miles north of Cape Girardeau resulted in four injuries.

The accident occurred when a south bound car driven by Robert Welker, 21, of Jackson came over a hill on the wrong side of the road and collided with a northbound car driven by Nelson King Jr., 25, of Jackson.

Welker and King received minor injuries, as did Mark Farrow, 15, of Jackson, a passenger in the Welker car, and Cecil Hale, 18, of Patton, a passenger in the King auto. All four were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Two men stationed at Blytheville Air Force Base near Blytheville, Ark., were slightly injured at 9 p.m. Sunday on Route NN one mile north of the Missouri-Arkansas Line when a northbound car driven by Michael Kriz, 19, ran off the road and stuck a bridge railing.

Kriz and a passenger, Charles Jones, 20, were taken to the base hospital.

Teeth survive fire

Mrs. Merrian Brown holds a set of false teeth, the only thing that appears to have survived in good condition in a fire which virtually destroyed her home Sunday night. The teeth are still in a plastic cup filled with water which insulated them from the intense heat that melted the outside of the cup.

Patrol to cruise at 50 m.p.h.

POPLAR BLUFF — Capt. Wayne C. Brooks, highway patrol Troop E commander, said today the troop will comply with the requests from Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond to conserve energy due to fuel shortages.

Brooks said all routine patrol cars will maintain a speed limit of 50 miles per hour and said the thermostat on the heating unit at patrol headquarters has been dialed down to 68 degrees.

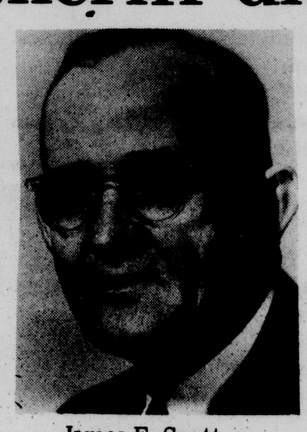
Brooks also said that from now on highway patrol reports on injuries in highway accidents will be listed only as minor, serious, or critical. Obtaining a list of individual injuries, as has been done in the past, takes up a lot of a trooper's time that could be used for other purposes, Brooks remarked.

James Scott, former MissCo sheriff dies

EAST PRAIRIE--- James Ernest Scott, 80, who served as sheriff of Mississippi County from 1940 through 1959, died at 11 a.m. Sunday in Bertrand Retirement Home following an extended illness.

A life- long resident of Mississippi County, he was born Jan. 1, 1893 in Charleston to the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Scott.

Scott served one term as mayor of East Prairie and was instrumental in securing the city's water system. He was also a landowner and farmer and a member of First Church of God in East Prairie.



James E. Scott

On April 6, 1914, he married Ora C. Cobb, who died on Jan. 8, 1962.

Surviving are his second wife, Mrs. Edna Diener Scott of Geneva, Ill., and one son, James Scott of East Prairie.

The body is at Shelby Funeral Home where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Tuesday. The Revs. Grady Hogue, pastor of First Church of God of Metropolis, Ill., and Winfred Caudell, pastor of First Church of God of East Prairie, will officiate.

Burial will be in the IOOF Cemetery near Charleston.

Saddles and bridles stolen

Three saddles and four bridles valued at more than $400 were discovered missing Saturday from a barn near the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo Grounds, according to police.

The riding equipment belonged to U. L. Standridge and two sons. They were reported stolen between Wednesday and Saturday.

2 arrested; dynamite sticks found in truck

CHARLESTON — Charges of possession of explosives may be filed against two men arrested Saturday, according to Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons.

Roger Scott, 22, of East Prairie and Dale Crump, 21, of rural Matthews were arrested about 2 a.m. Saturday in East Prairie by highway patrol Trooper Norris Grissom on charges of driving while intoxicated and taken to the Mississippi County jail in Charleston.

Simmons said Grissom returned to East Prairie to check the license plates on Crump's truck and saw dynamite on the floorboard. Crump was returned to East Prairie where a search of the truck revealed 11 sticks of loose dynamite, 31 dynamite caps and three sticks of dynamite tied together with a fuse and cap attached, according to Simmons.

Possession of explosives is a federal charge and the matter has been turned over to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Scott and Crump were released on $250 bond each on the driving while intoxicated charges.

N. Madrid apartment is damaged by fire

NEW MADRID — Firemen fought a fire in a second story apartment at Stover's Apartments, 222 Main St., for over an hour Sunday before bringing it under control.

No one was home at the time of the fire in the apartment occupied by Stover's daughter, Mrs. Glenda Ray.

Another occupant of the second floor, Mrs. Jennie Tribbey, was led from the building by firemen.

The fire was reported at 5:15 p.m. by passing youngsters who saw flames coming from an upper story window.

An estimate of the damage is not available, but the interior of the Ray apartment and its contents received extensive damage and the lower floor of the building received water damage.

Cause of the fire is believed to be an overloaded wiring circuit connected to an electric heater.

Fire guts home of Sikeston family

Fire gutted the Merrian Brown home, 1114 Osage St., shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday.

The fire was blamed on an electrical short in a teapot.

The six- room frame house was charred throughout, and the family lost most of its possessions.

Firemen were called back at 11:45 p.m. when a smoldering mattress broke into flames.

Three fires reported on Saturday included a minor electrical fire at 10:20 a.m. at Dame's Feed Store on North Kingshighway, a fire at 10:47 a.m. in the heater of a truck owned by C. L. Gadberry in the parking lot of Bob's Salvage Store on West Malone Avenue and a grassfire at 3 p.m. on Franklin Street.

Dover arrested

Tommy Dover, 721 Smith St., has been arrested for investigation of possession of controlled substances and driving while drinking, according to the Scott County sheriff's department.

Dover, a former city policeman and deputy sheriff was placed in the Sikeston jail, but later posted bond and was released.

He was arrested by Sheriff John Dennis and Deputy Bud Jones.

Old Morehouse Theater razed

The Old Morehouse Theater was razed by fire Saturday morning. The building, which had been condemned, was set afire about 11 a.m. at the request of the owners. The theater, empty for about 25 years, reportedly will be replaced by a car lot.

PUBLIC OPINION CHANGES

It wasn't long ago when a substantial proportion of public opinion ran against the annual practice of shifting to "daylight saving" time in the Spring, and then back to standard time in the Fall. Today, public opinion appears to be shifting the other way. One Representative in Washington reports that his mail is running in favor of year- round daylight saving time by a margin of 20-1.

Then, too, the most common reason given for support of "fast time" was once "for increased leisure time." Today, the most frequently mentioned reasons for favoring year- round daylight saving time are energy conservation and greater public safety.

Time and circumstances change many things, including public opinion.

Federal tax collections will increase about $385 per household in the government's fiscal year ending next June 30 says Tax Foundation Inc.

Based on a booming economy, more and higher incomes, and higher social security taxes next January, the government recently upped tax collection estimates to $258 billion. That is equal to $3,686 per household, compared to the $3,301 collected in the previous 12 months.

Subject to Congressional changes, the government planned to spend the $3,686 as follows:

Total	$3,686
Health & Welfare (Includes Social Insurance)	1,423

SALT IN THE WOUNDS

Defense experts agree that the treaties negotiated in Phase I of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) were a disaster for the United States. Now it appears that Phase II will be equally bad.

The Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) has prepared and disseminated a series of working papers for the next round of disarmament talks. These can be regarded as authoritative, since the chief of the SALT negotiations is also the chairman of ACDA, and the agency provides the technical data used by negotiators.

These working papers ignore the Jackson amendment to the SALT I treaties urging US negotiators to seek equality with the Soviets in "levels of intercontinental strategic forces." ACDA recommends no attempt to change the imbalance in missile weaponry which now favors the Soviets.

Instead, the report presses for the US to allow the Soviets new advantages in the areas of long- range bombers and multiple warheads. The ACDA bureaucracy also insists that our government surrender its Forward Based Systems, that is, the US aircraft stationed in Germany which are capable of carrying nuclear weapons.

Experts in the field of strategic weaponry have pointed out that SALT I gives the Soviets as much as 50 per cent advantage in land- based offensive missiles and a similar advantage in sea-based missiles. Now the ACDA is recommending that the remaining areas of US strength be negotiated away.

Instead of consulting ACDA, the Administration should seek advice from military men responsible for defending our country. A nation's defense policy should ensure that nation's survival. The ACDA proposals would seriously jeopardize our security.

WATERGATE BRED IN LAWLESS '60S?

Watergate has been a cruel blow to those young people who have been resisting the radical and "counterculture" temper of their generation, thinks New York University professor Iving Kristol.

In the past few years, he says, young people have needed considerable courage to affirm publicly not only their support of President Nixon but of certain traditional values, like patriotism. Now, he laments, they have been rewarded with personal humiliation and political shame.

The charge is quite valid, and while it can be pointed out that a great many older Americans may share the feelings of humiliation and shame, young people, being young, no doubt feel them more acutely.

Yet on this question of disillusionment and deceit, some recent Watergate committee testimony is extremely pertinent.

The witness was Jeb Staurt Magruder, former deputy director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President (and it was CREP, let it never be forgotten, not the GOP, which engineered the Watergate break-in and other assorted depredations against the democratic process).

Pressed by Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., to explain why he, Magruder, and the others that Magruder had implicated had done what they had done, approving burglary and then compounding it with perjury, when they knew all along that it was wrong, Magruder spoke of a kind of erosion of moral sense, if not common sense, in the men pledged to serve the President.

He spoke of witnessing "continuing violations of the law" by men like William Sloane Coffin, from whom he had once taken a course in ethics. At a rally on the grounds of the Washington Monument, Coffin, now a chaplian at Yale University, urged students to burn their draft cards and demonstate against the government.

Magruder also spoke of a "certain atmosphere" that developed in the White House, the feeling that if the dissenters could break the law, then it was legitimate to fight fire with fire.

None of this, of course, is any defense whatsoever. It also ignores the vast difference between the activities of the anti-war dissenters, which for the most part were public and open, were not aimed at denying anyone's civil liberties and invited punishment, and those of the Watergate conspirators, which were secret, were a betrayal of public trust and were capped with elaborate attempts to cover up and evade responsibility and punishment.

Nevertheless, Magruder's testimony is the first real evidence we have had of the deeper effects of the years of dissent.

There never was any danger that the antiwar dissenters or even the more violent radicals could overthrow the government. Yet by practicing the breaking of the law in the name of a higher morality, by glorifying simple vandalism or hooliganism, by creating such distrust and tension on one campus that National Guardsmen could turn and shoot down their own contemporaries, the antiwar movement created a psychic environment in which the Watergate conspirators could breed.

It will remain for historians to judge which was responsibile for inflicting the most grevious wound on the body of American democracy — Watergate or the righteous lawlessness of the 1960s.

Magruder at least told the investigating senators that he had learned that "two wrongs don't make a right." This is far more than has ever been conceded by some of the spokesmen for the dissenters.

CITIZENS AGAINST CRIME

On three occasions within a week, New Yorkers who were chance witnesses to street crimes have taken an active part either in apprehending the suspects or in assisting the police in making the arrests.

In one instance, three local citizens actually gave chase and captured two suspected muggers near the scene of the violent attack. In another incident, passersby surrounded a taxicab in which three suspects attempted to flee from the scene of a purse-snatching and formed a human barrier until police could take over. In the third episode, the neighbors of a 9-year - old girl who was alleged to have been the victim of an attempted rape overpowered the suspect and turned him over to the police.

Although the last of these citizen actions may, in fact, have been carried out with an excessive use of force, leaving the suspect unconscious, the cumulative message of the three incidents points to a gratifying re-emergence of public cooperation with police efforts to combat crime. It is an encouraging departure from what in the past has too often appeared to be either an attitude of resignation and indifference or an actual tendency to condone criminal acts.

Ultimately, the war against violent street crime must, of course, be carried on and won by trained and authorized law-enforcement personnel. But the changes for victory over the muggers will be infinitely greater in an atmosphere of public condemnation of the criminals and active support of the law. — New York Times

DIVINE RIGHT OF BUREAUCRATS

Public officials seem to have an irresistible urge to play God in the promulgation of rules governing our lives. In one of his columns, Mr. James J. Kilpatrick describes a type of rule making which reaches a new high in presumption of the last words in wisdom.

In spite of differences of opinion of competent scientific authorities, the government has issued a fiat that all foods that are fortified or enriched must hereafter bear elaborate labels. Quoting from the law, Mr. Kilpatrick finds these "findings of fact": "There is no rationale for allowing the promotion of dietary supplements of vitamins and - or minerals to the general American population for the purpose of treating diseases or symptoms ... Lay persons are incapable of determining, by themselves, whether they have vitamin or mineral deficiencies ... Vitamin or mineral deficiencies are unrelated to the great majority of symptoms like tiredness, nervousness, and rundown condition ..."

Mr. Kilpatrick asks, "These are facts?" and adds, "Since when are they facts? To be sure, certain experts advance these assertions. Other experts deny them ... Nutrition is not an exact science." In his view, rules such as these are examples of confusing "... bureaucratic power with divine power." A great many Americans who still believe in self- determination of what is good or not good for them will say "Amen" to that.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

One of the best ways that we, as citizens of Republic USA, can get the attention of government and civic leaders is by writing letters to the editor. There is no better forum for expression of opinion on matters both on the official and unofficial fronts. Elected leaders at all levels read the letters to the editor column. From these letters our leaders know what the people are thinking and how the electorate expects its public servants to perform. Innovations in law- making and enforcement often find expression in these popular columns. No page is more widely read with the exception of page one, perhaps.

To convey the writer's ideas in an effective form, letters should get to the point and be kept short. They often take some planning. If they are concise and clear, they will be widely read and appreciated. Their message may get action.

If you have not read the letters- to- the- editor column lately, we suggest you turn to that section and learn what your fellow citizens are thinking. You may get ideas from them. Then take pen in hand and pass your thoughts on to other readers via your favorite newspaper. Editors take note of these letters. They, too, learn a lot from the expression of ideas in the letters columns.

It is easy for one to complain to a neighbor about the affairs of the nation and the world. It is more constructive to suggest what can be done about them. Your fellow citizens may not agree with you, but your letter will give them some food for thought. Officials of government may not agree with you either. You never know until you try. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

'Plot' to Burn Brookings

WASHINGTON-- The reported White House plot to set fire to the esteemed Brookings Institute as a cover for an FBI burglary of its files, according to secret testimony, was no joke but a serious proposal from Charles Colson.

The former presidential trouble- shooter laughed off rumors earlier this year of a scheme to burn Brookings. When we told him about the sworn testimony we have now obtained, he dismissed it as "Disneyland East."

But the testimony was taken from no less than John Caulfield, the ex- Treasury Department aide and jack- of-all tricks, who did undercover work for the White House. He told the Senate Watergate investigators behind closed doors that he refused to start the Brookings fire because "enough is enough."

The preposterous plot raises specters of the Reichstag fire in 1933 when Adolf Hitler's aides conspired to burn [illegible] the German parliament so it could be blamed on the Communists.

JULY 1971

The mini- Reichstag by Nixon's aides, as detailed in a secret summary of Caulfield's testimony, was proposed "in early July of 1971." Caufield said Colson asked him "to get some national security documents from the office of Leslie Gelb (a former Defense Department official) at the Brookings Institute."

The careful Caulfield, uneasy about sneaking documents out of Gelb's office, warned Colson "of the difficulties that the project would cause because of the security questions."

Declares the document: "Colson suggested that one way of getting the information was to have the District of Columbia fire regulations changed and have the FBI respond to all arsons. Colson [illegible] and then the FBI could take the file out of Gelb's office."

Caulfield said he "believed that the clear implication was for (him) to start a fire there." But this was too much for the White House gumshoe. After hearing Colson's proposal, Caulfield "literally ran to (presidential counsel John) Dean's office" and said he was catching "the next plane to San Clemente because 'enough is enough.'"

DEAN'S INTEREST

Caulfield explained that Dean had also been interested in Brookings and had sought "background about its personnel and financing." Indeed, Dean may have had Brookings' tax returns "pulled...in the summer of 1971." But the Reichstag concept was also too much for Dean.

So Dean himself, rather than Caulfield, flew to San Clemente. Upon his return, Dean instructed Caulfield "to forget about Colson's project and the Brookings Institute." That was the last Caulfield "heard of the project," he testified, "until Colson brought [illegible] joke."

Colson, in a talk with us, said "the story is Disneyland East and I have fully testified before federal investigating bodies as to the true circumstances."

Colson's friends insist he is given to overstatement in jest. He once made a joking remark, they recall, about sending in troops to close down the Washington Post presses.

FOOTNOTE: Caulfield, who did a good job as assistant director of the Treasury's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms unit after leaving the White House, lost his job and came down with ulcers in the wake of Watergate. Now jobless, with three children to support, he answered our inquiries with a polite "no comment." Gelb told us, incidentally, that he had no classified files [illegible]

HOUSE: An embattled President Nixon discussed the pros and cons of resigning with his advisers before he declared to the nation his determination to stay in the White House, if physically able, until the end of his term.

The President told his aides solemnly that he would step down if he should ever feel his leadership was hurting America. But he felt that he had greater experience and understanding than any successor to deal with the foreign policy problems now facing the nation.

The implication of his remark was that he considered it a patriotic duty to remain on the job. He felt those who are now calling for his departure simply don't understand the gravity of the international crisis.

Nixon reminded aides that President Harry Truman had fought back an all- time, 23 per cent low in the polls. The American people like a fighter, said the President, who indicated he would follow this example.

[illegible] calls for his resignation. He regards this as evidence that his foes doubt their ability to impeach him.

For him to resign, added the President, would be taken as an admission of guilt. Therefore, he intends to spend his remaining three years in office, battling, Truman- style, for his "rightful place in history."

LETTER TO BRANDT: President Nixon has written a conciliatory, secret letter to West Germany's Chancellor Willy Brandt, who had complained that the United States had ordered a worldwide alert without consulting the NATO allies and had moved military supplies from Germany to Israel at a time when West Germany was trying to maintain neutrality in the Arab- Israeli conflict.

[illegible] more fully informed and to consult with them in the future before taking action affecting them.

Probe Both Sides:

Powerful Missouri Mafia Chiefs Got Strong Assist from Democratic Regime

WASHINGTON--- Somehow the rot of interwoven, corrupt, often lethal, Missouri unions, key Democratic politicians, and what is all too charitably known as the Mafia, tied in with Meyer Lansky of Old Murder, Inc. days, escapes the national limelight prosecution and punishment it deserves.

So corrupt is this combine, so intricately linked with national and international politics, and even the Lyndon Johnson White House, that it boggles the mind. Except for a few crusading newsmen, it goes virtually unreported.

Compare this, some of which I'll soon detail, with what happened when President Nixon automatically commuted the 12- year sentence of Genovese Mafia family chieftain Angelo (Gyp) DeCarlo last Dec. 20.

There was a political killer-hurricane. It hit the wire services, front pages and whipped up Sen. Scoop Jackson who charged that the then Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst and the former presidential counsel John Dean III had "bypassed normal procedures and safeguards" in freeing the brutal New Jersey Mafia leader. There was a two-month FBI investigation. Archibald Cox, then special prosecutor, got a report from the New Jersey U. S. Attorney Herb Stern.

There was nothing subtle in the reports across the land--- [illegible] practically accused Dick [illegible] of freeing the Cosa Nostra's methodical gangland executioner" (an FBI description-- VR) as a personal favor to a friend.

Fact is that the Federal Bureau of Prisons had recommended that DeCarlo be released from the penitentiary for he would die in three to six months. It is traditional to send a prisoner home to die. DeCarlo, who had cancer of the prostate, lived 10 months. Gyp's death hardly got the play which his release received.

Now, it did happen that during the same week DeCarlo was commuted, in December 1972, three reputed underworld toughs, with fantastic connections, were pardoned by the outgoing Democratic party regime of the then Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Nationally this went unnoticed. Yet one of the three--- pardoned only a day [illegible] released the [illegible] DeCarlo--- is a well known St. Louis hood. He is Art Bernee, who took over some of the big money rackets of the late Buster Wortman across the river in East St. Louis, Ill. Bernee is believed, by informed St. Louis circles, to be an associate of regional Mafia men. Yet Tom Walsh, a former state Democratic Representative, acknowledged interceding for hoodlum Bernee.

And let it be known across this land that Walsh is president of the Missouri State Building Trades (union) Council. He is, in effect, the counterpart of what Secretary of Labor Brennan was in New York before joining the cabinet.

Presidency of a state AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Council is a prestigious labor post. Why would Tom Walsh urge the freeing of a muscle man believed by state and federal authorities to be an intimate of the Mafia?

Also pardoned on Dec. 21 was Thomas (Tommy Morgan) Cacioppo, an ex- con, who did time for kidnapping and armed robbery. He was pardoned over the opposition of the parole board.

"Tommy Morgan" Cacioppo is part of what some anti- crime authorities call the Kansas City Mafia elite. This anti- social register consists of seven names of alleged Cosa Nostra men who make up the upper echelon of the Kansas City Crime Syndicate. On this list are three Civellas--- Nick, his nephew Anthony (Tony Ripe) and Carl (Corky).

Tony was absolved on Dec. 15 by Gov. Hearnes.

Obviously, only a bit of the gory story can be related here. But in one fashion or another the whole machinery is tied in with the corrupt, nationally powerful Local 562, of the pipefitters' union which was once led by the late specialist in brutality and thievery, Larry Callanan. His son only recently was almost blown to bits by a car bomb--- but he lost only two legs and part of a hand. Larry Callanan was doing a long stretch in the federal pen when he was pardoned by Lyndon Johnson in April 1964.

After that, the bloodstained local's multimillion- dollar political fund donated $25,000 to "Friends of LBJ." And much more.

Certainly let's investigate Washington, the White House and Watergate into eternity. But let's have a single standard. Probe both sides.

You're never too old to hear better.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A replica of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep, free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation.

Mayor expresses appreciation

Before signing a proclamation declaring this week to be Youth Appreciation Week in Sikeston, Mayor Frank Ferrell expressed his appreciation of youth to Sikeston High School students attending this morning's Optimist Club meeting at Holiday Inn. Students invited to the meeting and then on a tour of the fire department and city offices, front row, from left, are Gaither Daugherty, Mike Warfield, Nancy Hurley, Lea Ann Matthews and Brenda Yarber. Second row, Charles Grimm, Lee Clayton, David Horne, Tom Luber and Randy Rakestraw.

Youth Appreciation Week begins

Youth Appreciation Week, sponsored by the Sikeston Optimist Club, officially began at the club's breakfast meeting this morning at Holiday Inn where Mayor Frank Ferrell signed a proclamation and the club entertained 10 high school students.

Following the meeting, the students were taken on a tour of both fire stations, the police department and city offices, where they talked to Bill Whitlock, acting city manager.

Students participating in the tour were Mike Warfield, Randy Rakestraw, Lea Ann Matthews, Gaither Daugherty, Nancy Hurley, Tom Luber, Lee Clayton, David Horne, Brenda Yarber and Charles Grimm.

Harry Batts, director of vocational orientation at Sikeston High School, explained the program which seeks to put youth to work in the community, thus helping them to become productive citizens. His job, Batts explained, was to get the students out of school and into the hands of employers.

Optimists have also arranged for students to serve as disc jockeys on a local radio station from 6 to 7 p.m. each day this week.

Robert Bennett became a new member of the Optimist Club at this morning's meeting.

Helping the Optimist Club kick off Youth Appreciation Week were a group of members from the Cape Girardeau Evening Optimist Club: Earl James, Frank Lewis, Charles Hutson, Milton George, Rolf Svedborg and E. C. Younghouse.

Explaining program

Ann Landers

Sisters try to exclude brother's wife from will

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17 and beautiful. This is not just my opinion. I have heard it from hundreds of people ever since I was old enough to know what the word meant. But I would gladly trade my beauty for a few more brains.

Since I was 14 I have been talked out of my maidenhood by at least 20 guys. I am ashamed of myself. The first time I was just plain snowed by oratory. The fellow was the captain of the debate team and I was no match for him. It seems the guys I go with give me such logical reasons why I should end up in bed with them I figure, "Oh, well, maybe they're right..." Later I am disgusted with myself.

Please give me some good arguments for saying "no." I am tired of losing the battle and hating myself in the morning. ---Easy Mary.

Dear Mary: Where did you get the idea that you owe those dudes reasons for hanging on to what belonged to you in the first place? Don't engage in any more debates. If the boys want to intellectualize, tell them you are not interested in sex as a contact sport and to get lost. (P.S. You were talked out of your maidengood only once, dear. You were talked out of something else the other 19 times.)

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widow, age 55. My father-in-law is in very poor health and the doctors say it is just a matter of days. "Pops," as we call him, told me three years ago at his son's funeral that I would share his estate equally with his two daughters.

I have always loved Pops, helped him with his letter-writing and mending, driven him wherever he wanted to go, and he was at my dinner table almost every night. He frequently told me his daughters are fine girls but their husbands had made it clear that they didn't want "the old man around too much."

Yesterday one of the girls said something about "the old man" being out of his mind and that he had mumbled some nonsense about his estate being divided three ways. She told me, "It won't hold up in court so don't count on it."

I am not hard up for money, Ann, but neither are they.

This morning the other daughter suggested that I sign a paper forfeiting my share "to save the expense and embarrassment of a court fight." I am shocked and upset. What do you advise? ---Still Reeling

Dear S.R.: The poor fellow isn't even dead yet and his daughters are already counting his money. My advice is: Say nothing. Do nothing. Sign nothing. Consult a lawyer if you run into trouble at probate time.

Dear Ann Landers: My 16-year-old cousin sent for your booklet called "Teen-Age Sex And Ten Ways To Cool It." She sent her 50 cents and the long, self-addressed, stamped envelope like it said at the foot of your column. When the booklet arrived, she read it right away and phoned me to say it was very good and gave her a lot to think about.

Well, Ann Landers, three months later she was pregnant and got married very fast. Her mother almost had a heart attack. What I want to know is why do you recommend booklets if they don't do any good? --- Highly Disappointed

Dear Highly: Sorry, but all I can do is state the facts in simple, forthright language. I can't guarantee that my booklets will keep anybody out of trouble. (Maybe your cousin was pregnant when she got the booklet?)

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex ---Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

GOOD DINNER

Ham Steak — Yams
Molded Relish — Bread Tray
Apple Kuchen — Beverage

MOLDED RELISH

Good way to use cabbage.

1 package (3 ounces) lemon-flavor gelatin
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white pepper
1 cup boiling water
3/4 cup cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 1/2 cups finely chopped green cabbage

Stir together the gelatin, salt, pepper and boiling water until gelatin dissolves; stir in cold water and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in remaining ingredients. Ladle into six 1/2-cup molds or custard cups. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

Christmas tour set for Dec. 9

Foster grandparents and their coordinator, Mrs. Jolene Walker, were guests of Sikeston Civic Club Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Tom Gleason, 311 Salcedo Road. Twenty- seven members and one guest were present. Mrs. Paul Heckemeyer, Mrs. Leon Garrett, Mrs. Harrison Tanner and Mrs. J. R. Harwell were hostesses.

Mrs. Mildred Canedy, club program director, introduced Mrs. Walker, who explained that the Foster Grandparent Program is used in the Sikeston and Poplar Bluff Regional Diagnostic Clinics.

Two foster grandmothers, Mrs. Ada Dement and Mrs. Gladys Waddell, also were present to give their views and experiences. They stressed mutual rewards to the children and grandparents participating.

Mrs. Margaret Cain reported on one of the club's projects — medical assistance given to needy school children.

Homes chosen for the Civic Club annual Christmas Tour were also announced, and included the homes of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hanks, 707 Mimosa; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kellett, 919 Davis Blvd.; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Forbis, 936 Moore Ave.; and Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Martin, 902 Moore Ave. The tour is scheduled on Dec. 9, and tickets will be available soon from Civic Club members.

We prepare John's Pizza with such fine, wholesome ingredients that we want to make sure you enjoy it at its freshest peak of perfection. That's why we clearly stamp a freshness date on every package.

After all, we use enriched spring wheat flour, Grade A San Joaquin Valley tomatoes, aged Wisconsin whole-milk cheese, carefully blended spices, and U.S. Government-inspected hamburger beef—or our own special sausage or tangy pepperoni—all under continuous inspection by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

What's the use of going to all that trouble, unless we make sure that it tastes pizza parlor-fresh?

So check the date on every package you buy, and we'll both be happy.

And to make you even happier, we're offering you a money-saving coupon. Take us up on it today!

Country music star slain

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music star David "Stringbean" Akeman and his wife had $5,700 in cash hidden on them when they were murdered in what was believed to be a burglary, a police source said today.

The bodies of Stringbean, a star of "Hee Haw" and the Grand Ole Opry whose sad face and funny wardrobe endeared him to country music fans, and his wife were found Sunday morning by L. M. "Grampa" Jones, a fellow country music star and a long-time friend.

The police source said a funeral home employe had found $3,500 in Stringbean's bib overalls and $2,200 in Mrs. Akeman's clothing.

The source said the money previously had been overlooked by investigators and apparently by the killers, who police believe were burglars surprised by Stringbean when he and his wife returned to their rural home following Saturday night's Opry.

"It looks as if Stringbean was shot after he opened the door," said detective Lt. Tom Cathey. "Mrs. Akeman was apparently shot as she tried to flee."

Jones, who drove to the Akeman home to join Stringbean on a hunting trip, said he found Mrs. Akeman's body lying beside a driveway. He said he found Stringbean's body lying face down on the floor of his house. Nearby in the doorway lay his banjo.

Police said the three-room house had been ransacked and some of Mrs. Akeman's personal effects were missing.

Friends had said earlier that Stringbean was well off financially and often carried large sums of cash.

Stringbean was known to country music fans for his unique stage costume, an overlong shirt sewn to short trousers midway between his waist and knees. His banjo, sad face, pinched eyebrows and tattered straw hat completed the ensemble.

Stringbean's music career started at the age of 13 when he and a friend made a banjo. He left his home in Anneville, Ky., when he was 18 to tour with Lew Childres.

He came to the Opry in 1942 with Bill Monroe. He later joined the television series "Hee Haw" but maintained his close ties with the Opry and appeared there frequently. His humor was droll and soft spoken, and he was often a straight man for other stars' jokes.

Police said they were looking for two or more persons but had made no arrests. They searched Stringbean's 143-acre farm, which includes a 10-room home in which the Akemans did not live, and used dogs to retrace the steps of the assailants.

Course on lagoon operations to be offered at Malden

NEOSHO — The Water and Wastewater Technical School at Neosho will conduct a one-week short course on lagoon operations Nov. 26-30 in the Malden area. The course, Lagoon Operation and Maintenance, is sponsored jointly by the Environmental Protection Agency, Missouri Clean Water Commission and the Water and Wastewater Technical School to provide training for lagoon operators.

Included in the course are laboratory testing, biology and chemistry of lagoon operation, math as applied to typical sizing, loading problems of sewage treatment and lagoon operations and report filing and record keeping. Student problem clinics and periods for local and student problems are also held each day.

The course will be free to operators in Missouri, particularly the Bootheel area due to the location of the course. The only cost to the participating student or city would be board and room and/or transportation to the course.

If interested, send name, address, telephone number, course title and name of sponsor or employer with address and position title to Short Course, Water and Wastewater Technical School, P. O. Box 370, Neosho, Mo. 64850, Attention: Mrs. Abby Crawford, as soon as possible, or phone (417) 451-2786.

Bowl talk increases

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of the nation's top college football teams aren't holding their collective breath waiting for an invitation when the bowl bids go out next Saturday.

The reason is that the pairings for the Sugar, Orange and Cotton Bowls already have been signed, sealed and delivered, even though the National Collegiate Athletic Association says the invitations can't be extended until 6 p.m. on the third Saturday in November, which is next Saturday.

The Rose Bowl, which matches the champions of the Big Ten and Pacific-8 Conferences, will learn who its participants are on Nov. 24 when Ohio State, No. 1 in The Associated Press ratings, visits fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 8 Southern California plays No. 9 UCLA.

As of now, the Sugar Bowl has the plum — a battle of unbeatens between second-ranked Alabama and No. 5 Notre Dame. The Orange Bowl, which annually opts for the highest ranking teams available, will have to settle — if that's the word — for a similar matchup of teams with perfect records, No. 6 Penn State against No. 7 Louisiana State. Alabama and LSU, however, must play each other Thanksgiving night.

Texas seems a shoo-in again as the Southwest Conference's representative in the Cotton Bowl against Nebraska. And Tennessee appears to have the inside track to the Gator Bowl, with Missouri the likely foe.

That leaves such attractive teams as Texas Tech, Houston, North Carolina State, Kansas, Tulane and Auburn, among others. The Liberty Bowl is looking at all of those teams although Texas Tech could wind up in the Bluebonnet Bowl and the Fiesta Bowl is leaning toward Tulane or Houston as an opponent for the Western Athletic Conference champ, either Arizona State or Arizona.

Miami of Ohio, the MidAmerican titlist, is set for the Tangerine Bowl with the remaining berth there along with teams for the Peach and Tangerine Bowls to come from the aforementioned, and possibly Colorado, East Carolina, Maryland, Oklahoma State, Pitt, San Diego State and Tampa.

In weekend action, Ohio State blanked Michigan State 35-0 as Archie Griffin smashed Hopalong Cassady's one-season rushing record — he gained 131 for a total of 1,012 — and Bruce Elia scored three times.

Alabama was idle but thirdranked Oklahoma, ineligible for a bowl, trimmed No. 10 Missouri behind Joe Washington's 23-yard run and 80-yard punt return and a 63-yard pass play from Steve Davis to Billy Brooks.

Michigan downed Illinois 21-6 despite fumbling six times and losing four of them. The Wolverines trailed 6-0 before Ed Shuttlesworth, Gil Chapman and Paul Seal all ran for touchdowns.

Notre Dame withstood a 209yard performance by Tony Dorsett, most ever by a running back against the Irish, and knocked off No. 20 Pitt 31-10 as Wayne Bullock rushed for 167 yards and four scores. Pitt lost the ball seven times on fumbles and interceptions.

Penn State rallied to defeat North Carolina State 35-29 as John Cappelletti, who rushed for 220 yards and three touchdowns, scored the tie-breaker on a 27-yard gallop with 8½ minutes left.

LSU also had the weekend off while Southern Cal, down 23-10 after three periods, rallied to nip Stanford 27-26 on Chris Limahelu's 34-yard field goal with three seconds left. Rod Garcia kicked four for the losers, including boots of 59 and 52 yards. Mark Harmon tallied twice and Kermit Johnson ran for 146 yards in UCLA's 27-7 triumph over Oregon.

Dave Humm scored a firstperiod touchdown and passed for another 51 seconds later as No. 11 Nebraska beat Iowa State 31-7. Two touchdowns by Larry Isaac and Joe Barnes' scoring pass to Andre Tillman helped No. 12 Texas Tech come from behind and defeat Texas Christian 24-10.

Roosevelt Leaks barreled for three touchdowns, leading No. 13 Texas to a 42-6 rout of Baylor. Arizona State, No. 14, got two touchdowns apiece from Woody Green, Ben Malone and Fred Williams and crushed Wyoming 47-0.

Leonard Parker rushed for 200 yards and two scores as No. 15 Houston shaded Colorado State 28-20. No. 16 Tennessee didn't play but No. 17 Miami nailed down the MAC crown with a 20-10 triumph over No. 19 Kent State behind Chuck Varner's two touchdowns. No. 18 Kansas halted a Colorado rally by recovering a fumble on its own 24-yard line with 21 seconds left to beat the Buffs 17-15.

East Carolina clinched its second consecutive Southern Conference crown by whomping Richmond 44-14. Arizona held onto its 1½-game lead over Arizona State and Utah in the WAC with a 24-10 triumph over Brigham Young.

Dartmouth beat Columbia 24-6 and Harvard defeated Princeton 19-14 to remain deadlocked for the Ivy League lead.

Syracuse finally notched its first win, 5-3 over Holy Cross on a fourth-period safety. But Army, Florida State, Iowa and Long Beach State all remained winless.

And New Mexico State became the first major team to end its season. The Aggies finished 5-6 after losing to Utah State 40-12.

ST. LOUIS (AP)— St. Louis baseball writers have selected catcher Ted Simmons and left fielder Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals for repeat honors as the chapter's baseball men of the year.

Simmons, who hit .310 and totalted 91 runs batted in, and Brock, who topped the major leagues with 70 base thefts, will be honored during the 17th St. Louis Baseball Writers Association of America dinner Jan. 21.

Vikings extend streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In 1969, running backs Bill Brown and Dave Osborn helped the Minnesota Vikings get to the Super Bowl.

On Sunday the veteran duo boosted the Vikings a step closer toward returning to that championship confrontation when they ran 101 yards and 79 yards respectively to lead Minnesota to a 28-7 victory over Detroit in the National Football League.

The decision gave Minnesota at least a tie for the National Conference Central Division title.

"Heck," said the 35-year-old Brown, who along with Osborn had been the object of preseason suggestions that he be phased out, "I don't remember the last time I've had a 100yard day. It's been a couple of years at least. I can't even remember the last time I carried 18 times in a game."

Brown's touchdown helped give the Vikings their 14th straight victory and a triumph in any of their remaining five games, or a loss by either Chicago or Green Bay will clinch the division title for Minnesota.

In other NFL Sunday action, Pittsburgh beat Oakland 17-9, Miami walloped Baltimore 44-0, Cincinnati tripped Buffalo 16-13, Washington beat San Francisco 33-9, Los Angeles whipped New Orleans 29-7, Atlanta defeated Philadelphia 44-7, Cleveland dumped Houston 23-13, Green Bay beat St. Louis 25-21, and Denver defeated San Diego 30-19.

Kansas City hosts the Chicago Bears in a nationally televised game tonight.

Steelers 17, Raiders 9

For Pittsburgh, the best offense was a great defense, led by Dwight White. The 24-yearold defensive end intercepted two passes and set up a touchdown to pace the Steelers to their 17-9 victory.

"They can outrush us and outpass us all the time as long as we outscore them," said Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll, whose team was outrushed 195-95 and had only eight first downs to Oakland's 26.

Dolphins 44, Baltimore 0

Miami had a modest hero in its 44-0 trouncing of Baltimore. Despite the two touchdown he scored on runbacks of blocked punts, cornerback Tim Foley insisted "it's no big thing."

Mercury Morris also starred for the Dolphins, scoring on runs of 48 and 53 yards.

Bengals 16, Bills 13

"People always remember the bad things that happen and never the good," said soccerstyle kicker Horst Muhlmann after making himself hard to forget by kicking a field goal with three seconds remaining to give Cincinnati a 16-13 victory over Buffalo.

Muhlmann's three field goals broke a tie brought on by O.J. Simpson's 32-yard third-quarter touchdown. Simpson picked up 99 yards on 20 carries to raise his nine-game total to 1,203.

Redskins 33, 49ers 9

Sonny Jurgensen and Billy Kilmer, the ailing Washington quarterbacking duet, provided the one-two punch which brought the Redskins out a twogame losing streak with a 33-9 victory.

Jurgensen tossed an 18-yard touchdown in relief of Kilmer, who later returned to fire two scoring strikes of his own.

Rams 29, Saints 7

The Saints came back down to earth after winning two straight games as Lawrence McCutcheon scored once and figured in four other scores to help Los Angeles win 29-7.

The NFC West leaders held the Saints in check except for a 65-yard touchdown pass from Archie Manning to Jubilee Dunbar, the only completion for the New Orleans' quarterback in the first half.

Falcons 44, Eagles 27

Atlanta remained in contention in the NFC West with its 44-27 victory over the Eagles, who at one point had tied the game 20-20.

Then Atlanta punter John James angled a 46-yarder outof-bounds on the Philadelphia one and after the Falcon defense held, Atlanta took over on the Eagle 43. It took Atlanta only eight plays to score the goahead touchdown and clinch their fifth straight victory.

Browns 23, Oilers 13

During what Cleveland Coach Nick Skorich called "probably our best quarter of the season", the Browns scored 17 points in the first quarter to defeat Houston 23-13. Despite their 195 total yards in that first period, the Browns quickly bogged down, gaining only 18 total yards in the second and 15 in the third.

Broncos 30, Chargers 19

The Broncos rallied behind veteran Charley Johnson to defeat San Diego 30-19 and spoil the coaching debut of new Charger Coach Ron Waller.

Packers 25, Cardinals 21

Green Bay held off a fourthquarter comeback led by quarterback Jim Hart to defeat St. Louis 25-21. The Packers had compiled a 22-7 halftime lead before Hart threw a 23-yard fourth-quarter touchdown pass and then directed a 58-yard march for another score.

Cowboys 23, Giants 10

Green Bay held off a fourthquarter comeback led by quarterback Jim Hart to defeat St. Louis 25-21. The Packers had compiled a 22-7 halftime lead before Hart threw a 23-yard fourth-quarter touchdown pass and then directed a 58-yard march for another score.

Cowboys 23, Giants 10

Jets 33, Patriots 13

With Joe Namath still on the sidelines, and with Al Woodall getting re-injured, the Jets were still able to defeat New England 33-13 with the help of John Riggins and Emerson Boozer.

SEMO No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southeast Missouri moved into the lead in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football race by clubbing Missouri-Rolla 33-8 while Northwest Missouri dropped a 24-19 decision to Southwest Missouri Saturday.

In other MIAA play, Lincoln University blanked Northeast Missouri 21-0. Central Missouri battered Missouri Southern 44-19 outside the league.

William Jewell locked up the Heart of America Conference crown by edging Graceland 9-7 on Steve Butler's late field goal. Missouri Valley took second place in the HOA with a 70-10 assault of College of Emporia. Central Methodist grabbed third by downing Tarkio 34-13.

Quarterback Lance Brune scored three touchdowns and fullback Rick Attig added two more to thrust Southeast to the top in the MIAA with a 4-1 record. Missouri-Rolla is 1-3 in the league.

Kent Stringer passed for one touchdown and ran for another as Southwest put a dent in Northwest's title hopes. Northwest now is 4-2 while Southwest is 2-3.

Lincoln, 3-1, moved into second place in the MIAA as Cornelius President threw two touchdown passes to Johnny McDaniels. One was a 73-yard bomb; the other was a 14-yard play. Northeast Missouri dropped to 2-3.

Andrew Hudson and Ray Miller each scored two TDs to spark Central Missouri, 1-4 in the MIAA and 2-7 over-all. Missouri Southern, 4-5, the only independent in the state to see action, had a ray of hope as sophomore Steve Hamilton passed for two touchdowns and 364 yards.

William Jewell, which finished regular season play undefeated in 10 games, plays St. Mary of the Plains, Kansas Conference representative, in the Mineral Water Bowl at Excelsior Springs, Mo., Saturday.

Bill Lankford scored twice on runs of one and four yards and booted two field goals to ignite Central Methodist, 5-2. Tarkio ended with a 4-3 mark.

Next Saturday the MIAA chase continues as Southeast Missouri travels to Central Missouri, Southwest Missouri goes to Lincoln and Northeast Missouri is at Missouri-Rolla. The final MIAA game is Thanksgiving Day when Missouri-Rolla goes to Lincoln.

Two independents wind up their seasons Saturday at home. Arkansas Tech is at Missouri Southern and Washington and Lee will be in St. Louis to play Washington University.

Sooners romp

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Coach Barry Switzer of Oklahoma, whose third-ranked Sooners are only two victories away from winning the Big Eight Conference football championship, said today Saturday's test with the Kansas Jayhawks "will be a heart attack game."

Switzer put his finger on Dave Jaynes, the Jayhawk quarterback who leads the league in passing, as the player the Sooners fear most in the forthcoming battle at Norman, Okla.

"I haaven't seen that many films of Jaynes," Switzer continued, "but I know he is a great passer. Anytime you have somebody that good standing back there and throwing as many times as he's going to throw, it's bound to be a stopper."

Switzer had no real cause for concern last Saturday when the Sooners knocked off 10th-ranked Missouri with long plays 31-3 and wasn't surprised when he heard that 18th-rated Kansas had edged Colorado 17-15.

"I'm never surprised at anything that happens in the Big Eight," Switzer said.

In other games last weekend, 11th-ranked Nebraska, like Kansas, remained in the thick of the race and postseason bowl contention with a 31-7 victory over Iowa State, and Oklahoma State brushed aside Kansas State 28-9.

The Oklahoma-Kansas game will highlight Saturday's 10th week of the fading campaign. Nebraska goes to Kansas State, Missouri to Iowa State and Oklahoma State to Colorado in the other matches.

Kansas' big problems will be to contain the Sooners' Joe Washington and Waymon Clark. Washington, with Oklahoma ahead of Missouri only 10-3 late in the third quarter, ran 26 yards for a touchdown and later added another on an 80-yard punt return. Clark, who rushed 26 times for 153 yards, scored the first TD on a 14-yard run.

Oklahoma is 4-0 in the league and 7-0-1 over-all. Missouri's loss, its second in five conference games, has a record of 7-2 against all opposition.

"It was the great play of our defense that won for us," concluded Switzer. "Without question, Lucious Selmon is the greatest defensive lineman in the country ... the best we've ever had ... a definite Heisman Trophy candidate."

'The way Oklahoma played I would say they're the best in the country," said Al Onofrio, the Missouri coach.

The Jayhawks 6-2-1 and 3-1-1, had to come up with a fumble recovery by Rick Mudge to save the game with Colorado, 5-4 and 2-3. Mudge fell on freshman Billy Waddy's fumble on the Kansas 24-yard line with only 21 seconds left.

Jaynes connected on 11 of 26 passes for 170 yards and made one touchdown on a four-yard run.

The triumph touched off a wave of bowl fever among the Jayhawks. Coach Dan Fambrough said, "We're sure available if they want us." Jaynes said, "Any bowl as long as it's in the South."

"We didn't get the last break," moaned Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder. "That's football."

Nebraska, 7-1-1 and 3-1-1, made two touchdowns during a 51-second span of the first quarter against Iowa State, 2-6 and 0-5. Dave Humm made one on a one-yard run and passed 25 yards to Rich Bahe for the other. Cyclone fumbles set up both scores. Humm's 67-yard pass to Frosty Anderson accounted for a third touchdown.

The Huskers, who seem to have found themselves after a loss to Missour and a tie with Oklahoma State, combined passing and running for 409 yards.

Oklahoma State also kept its long-shot bowl hopes alive with its decision over Kansas State, 4-4 and 1-4 and in danger of having its third straight losing season. The Cowboys 4-2-2 and 1-1-2 held Isaac Jackson, the league's top rusher going into the game, to only 31 yards.

After K-State had pulled up to 14-9 with 13 minutes, 16 seconds remaining, Alton Gerard scored his second one-run touchdown for the Cowboys to end an 80-yard sustained drive.

"We definitely got beat up front," said K-State Coach Vince Gibson. "The difference in the game was that OSU was just physically stronger. They can be in the game with anybody with that defense because it's never going to give up too many points."

What's the law?

The case of the prudent cabbie

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Harry was a cautious taxi driver. While people usually lost all kinds of things in his cab, one thing he had no intention of losing in it was his life. Consequently, as a matter of prudence, during the evening hours he insisted that passengers sit next to him in the front seat where he could keep a wary eye on them. That way, he figured, he could reduce the chances of his being mugged.

As it turned out, instead of being mugged, Harry was reported. A would- be passenger refused to sit in the front seat with him, Harry refused to take him where he wanted to go and the would- be passenger indignantly filed a complaint against the prudent cabbie with the result that Harry's hack license was suspended.

"You've got some nerve," he was told. "You can't compel people to sit up front with you. You're a cab driver, not a companion."

"While I might not be a companion," retorted Harry, "I don't want to be a corpse, either. Consequently, requiring passengers to sit up front with me after dark, considering the dangerous times we're living in was perfectly reasonable."

Intent upon getting back his license, Harry protested the suspension in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give prudent Harry back his license?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a license to drive a taxi cab cannot be suspended for just any reason. It may be suspended for only reasons allowed by law. And, concluded the judge. Harry's requiring passengers to sit in the front seat, considering the circumstances and his motives, was not one of the reasons that would justify suspending his license.

B. C. cartoonist to have Thanksgiving special

NEW YORK (AP)— Johnny Hart, as a goodly number of kids, college students and general citizens know, draws the "B. C." comic strip, which is sort of a hipsters" "Flintstones."

Come Nov. 19, he'll have his first full- length cartoon feature on television, a half-hour effort on NBC called "B. C., The First Thanksgiving."

Most of it concerns a turkey who is uneasy at the idea of being dined on. Hart approaches interviews about the show approximately the same way the turkey contemplates the ax.

"I'm trying to get into the Guiness Book of Records as the worst interview of all time," he unhappily explained. Then he started laughing. "So you might as well prepare yourself."

Hart, a 41- year- old native of Endicott, N. Y., isn't a hostile witness. It's just that, well, a guy who draws ants that talk and anteaters that go "Zot!" as they dine is apt to be a bit strange upstairs.

In his defense, we'd point out that he's a great fan of the old "Roadrunner" cartoons, breaks up at the mention of Dudley Do- Right of the Royal Mounted Police and considers jazz trumpeter Jack Sheldon, a regular on the Merv Griffin show, one of the most naturally funny men of all time.

Hart, in short, is a normal cartoonist. His "B. C." strip has been nationally syndicated for nearly 13 years, but he's been a professional cartoonist since he was 19.

"I guess originally it was the only thing that I knew how to do," he said. "I started out just working nights and studying other people's drawings, then trying some of my own."

He continued drawing, even during a Korean war stint with the Air Force, but despite som success in magazines he didn't really hit until he happened to see Charles Schulz' "Peanuts" strip.

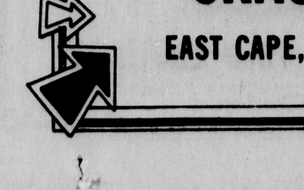
That prompted "B. C." and the rest is history. Now he wants to do more animated cartoons for television, but only on an irregular basis while continuing his strip.

"I don't like the idea of doing it for television every week, because you have to take so much away from it," he said, referring to time considerations that force reduction in cartoon detail.

"I'm of the old school. I like the full animation, like in the old days with the Warner Brothers stuff.

"But that's what I'd like to do," he said. "I think I have a talent for that. I think I have a good feel for sound, which you can't get on a page. I drive myself crazy trying to do it on a piece of paper, but, jeez, it's difficult."

Unlike many successful cartoonists, Hart still draws his own strip, seven days a week, 365 days a year.



Colonial inns had their patrons sleep up to five in a bed.

Subcommittee reports SBA lending abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Potentially criminal abuses in the Small Business Administration's lending operations have been reported by a House Banking subcommittee.

A member of the subcommittee told The Associated Press the allegations include the possible influence of organized crime on SBA loan activities and the discovery of millions of dollars in bad debts.

The subcommittee on Small Business turned its evidence over to the Justice Department last week and has summoned the SBA's top auditor, Frank Nicholas, to appear before it Wednesday.

It also recommended, in effect, that Congress stop the SBA from making more loans until criminal investigations are completed.

In a letter to Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, subcommittee chairman Robert Stephens said his group had "uncovered some serious problems in the administration of SBA offices and their loan and guarantee programs. Some of the problems are so severe that criminal prosecution may be in order."

Because of this, Stephens said, "it would be unwise for Congress to grant the agency more than $2 billion of new loan authority until the problems are corrected and criminal investigations are concluded."

Stephens asked Patman for the full committee's concurrence in the subcommittee's action last Thursday, to table a pending Senate-passed bill which would raise the SBA lending ceiling to $6.6 billion.

The SBA was created to help small businessmen who can't get credit through traditional channels. It can lend only up to its statutory ceiling, currently $4.3 billion, and then is precluded from further activity until outstanding loans are repaid.

Stephens noted that the SBA is expected to exhaust its supply of loan money by late November.

The SBA's top auditor, Nicholas, director of the Office of Portfolio Review, has been called to appear before to a closed-door hearing Wednesday. And Stephens said SBA Administrator Thomas Kleppe, a former Republican congressman from North Dakota, would be called later.

Kleppe did not return a reporter's calls seeking his comment on the subcommittee's announcement.

The subcommittee sources, who asked not to be identified, said the apparent subversion of SBA practices was "shockingly pervasive."

Hayti Heights will be one-year-old Dec. 28

HAYTI HEIGHTS— On Dec. 28 the city of Hayti Heights will be 1- year- old.

A lot has happened since the Pemiscot County Court last year declared that the all-black town was officially a fourth- class Missouri city.

For example:

The town now has its own city hall, formerly a realtor's two- room office. It is being enlarged.

Hayti Heights has become the second city in the Missouri Bootheel to hire a city administrator, made possible through a $17,000 grant from the state's Department of Community Affairs.

The city has been cleaned up, the result of a 10- week summer program that hired 84 youngsters, one of the state's largest Neighborhood Youth Corps— Emergency Employment Act Programs.

A town marshal has been hired. He drives his own car, but his salary is paid and equipment furnished through a Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant.

Garbage collections have been started, at a cost of $1.50 per household per month. The Army surplus truck used as a garbage truck was obtained through Lincoln University.

A little yellow van has been obtained through OEO channels and will be used to ferry elderly persons to the shopping and medical centers in nearby Hayti.

The first tax statements— a shock to some Heights residents— have been mailed and a tiny bit of locally generated income is trickling in.

Revenue sharing funds, income from the sale of a $4 city auto sticker and receipts from state gasoline tax refunds are being received.

Street lights, bought with funds from a 5 per cent franchise tax paid by Arkansas- Missouri Power Co., have been erected. A city limits sign is up and street and traffic control signs are in place.

To cap it all off, this summer Gov. Christopher S. 'Kit' Bond came to town.

The city has come a long way since the Hayti Heights Development Corporation members first met in a little rundown church and conceived incorporating, Mayor David Humes said.

"We have made great strides," he said, "but we still have so much to do."

Streets still are narrow and not paved.

Ninety per cent of the homes still do not have inside toilets.

Most homes do not have city water.

In many instances there still are three and four families sharing an outdoor water hydrant.

The average family income still is less than $2,500 a year.

The average education of Heights residents still is less than the seventh grade.

And property taxes are so low, that the city still has virtually no tax base.

But if anyone in the city administration is discouraged, it doesn't show.

Least of all on Mayor Humes. He sets the lead by putting in an average work week of about 90 hours, city administrator Thomas Dees said.

"And at a monthly salary of $250," Dees said. "I would say the city is getting a bargain."

Humes' major function is trying to find money for city improvements.

Within two months, he said, the city expects approval of a $300,000 Economic Development Administration grant that will allow it to tap Hayti's water lines and extend city water to most Heights' homes.

It may be possible, he said, for low interest government loans to be made to qualified householders who cannot afford to pay to have water connected to their homes.

Two immediate goals, he said, are to find funds for building a sanitary sewer system and improving city streets.

While the search for funds goes on, Dees, along with several Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) workers, is laboring to firm up the city's administrative procedures.

One of the first tasks, Dees said, is to revamp the city's $63,000 budget adopted earlier this year based on "anticipated" sources of income.

A city code is being drawn up— for free— by the county's prosecuting attorney, Arthur Stephenson, and soon will be adopted by the City Council.

VISTA worker Noel Ditmars, originally from Ames, Iowa, drew the city's base map, which was used to set up the town's tax books and to launch engineering studies for planned improvements.

What Humes calls "long-long- range plans" include industrial development.

"Our location is good," he said. "We are close to a railroad and Interstate 55. The river is not far from here. And, we understand that Missouri 84 one day will be rerouted to bypass the city of Hayti.

"When that happens it will open up another front for us."

He and Dees agreed that "industrial development may well determine whether Hayti Heights perpetuates itself as a city."

Much speculation over Kissinger-Chou En-lai talks

PEKING (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met today with Premier Chou En-lai for the third time in three days amid much speculation but no concrete information about their talks.

There was conjecture that the two were arranging a visit by Chou to the United States or arrangements for closer official relations than the liaison offices they presently maintain in each other's capital.

U.S. officials with Kissinger have not disclosed any details of the secretary's conversations since he arrived Saturday after his Middle East peace mission. But they said it was unlikely that the visit, Kissinger's sixth to China, would produce an agreement to open full diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking.

Kissinger goes to Tokyo on Tuesday.

Speculation that closer ties are the chief topic in Kissinger's talks was fueled by a banquet toast he made Saturday night: "We are determined to do much to complete the process we started two years ago as rapidly as possible."

The first meeting between Kissinger and Chou was held Saturday night after a lavish welcoming banquet. They met again for 3½ hours Sunday and later that day went to a ballet about the Chinese revolution.

Kissinger went sightseeing today with Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua. Strolling through the 15th century Temple of Heaven in southern Peking, Chiao noted it was his first visit there in 25 years.

"I'm going to explain it to him," quipped Kissinger, who had been there in October 1971.

Radar system nets speeders

EAST PRAIRIE — The city's new radar system caught nine speeders over the weekend. Speeding fines assessed by Police Judge Sidney Drummond today included: Clyde Riley of Wright City Route Two, $15; Ray Lynn Dorris of Cape Girardeau, $15; Joyce Simpkins of East Prairie Route One, $15; William F. Garner of East Prairie, $25; Larry Busby of East Prairie Route Two, $10; Sheila Skaggs of East Prairie Route One, $10; Jessie Patrick of East Prairie Route Two, $10; Patricia Faire of East Prairie, $10; and Robert E. Wheatley of East Prairie, $10.

Jap Matthews of East Prairie, arrested for public intoxication for the second time in five days, was fined $50. Frank Roberts of East Prairie and Buck Stacey of Anniston, also arrested on charges of public intoxication, were each assessed $20 fines.

Policemen extend training session

Sgt. Anderson Walker Jr. and Cpl. Jessie Reed attended a three-day training session on burglary last week at University of Missouri - Columbia according to Police Chief Leon Culp.

Culp said the training was in line with the Sikeston Police Department's policy on keeping abreast of new techniques in crime fighting.

In addition, officers Richard Couch, Brad Wilson and Carless Jones attended an advanced computer terminal school conducted recently by the highway patrol at Jefferson City.

Culp said the computer is a vital link in the communications system and the training will enable the police department to keep up to date on this important section of the department.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Nov. 12, the 316th day of 1973. There are 49 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, during World War II, the Soviets halted German invaders at the outskirts of Moscow.

On this date —

In 1812, Napoleon Bonaparte's army reached the Russian city of Smolensky in its retreat from Moscow.

In 1866, the founder of the Chinese republic, Dr. Sun YatSen, was born near Macao.

In 1927, Joseph Stalin became the dictator of the Soviet Union as Leon Trotsky was expelled from the Communist party.

In 1937, the Japanese captured and occupied Shanghai.

Thought for today: Enough is enough, and too much spoils — Italian proverb.

Nine wills come before Probate

BENTON — Nine wills came up for probate before Judge John H. Sides in Scott County Probate Court for the week ending Nov. 8.

Lela D. Lair, deceased: order of partial distribution.

The court ordered Frabk D. Lair, executor of the estate, to make partial distribution in estate by distributing to Emily Ruth Lair Pyle the sum of $1,000, to Margaret Ann Lair, $1,000, to Lorene Lair, $1,000, and Wesley Rowe Lair, $2,000 in full payment of the bequests to each person in the codicil of the last will and testament of the testatrix and instructed the executor to take credit therefore in settlement hereinafter filed.

Terri Dawn Holder, minor: appointment of guardians.

Jack C. Holder and Carol Joyce Holder presented their application as guardians of the person of estate who is now 15 years of age and ordered before entering upon the duties of office to enter into a good and sufficient bond to the State of Missouri in the sum of $7,000 conditioned to law. Bond was examined, approved, ordered filed and recorded, and letters of guardianship were ordered issued to them.

Ernest Lever Hughes, deceased: finding and order discharging administrator.

Elphart Hughes, administrator of estate, filed final settlement of estate which was approved by the order of the court on Oct. 8, 1973. The administrator filed final receipt of estate showing distribution that he has made to persons of the amount due them in accordance with the order of distribution. The court ordered that administrator and his sureties are hereby discharged and released.

Izora Lawrence, deceased: proof of publication of notice of granting letters testamentary filed.

Proof of publication of notice in The Jimplicute, a weekly newspaper, was presented showing dates of publication as Oct. 11, 18 and 25 and Nov. 1, 1973 and was examined and ordered filed.

Harry C. Blanton, deceased: semi- Annual settlement.

Henry Jospeh Blanton and James Patrick Tlapek, executors of the estate, presented their account and vouchers for semi- annual settlement, wherein they charged themselves the sum of $139,227.53 and asked credit for disbursements in the sum of $21,447.45, leaving a balance due of $117,780.08. Settlement was examined, approved, ordered filed and recorded.

Harry C. Blanton, deceased: order allowing partial payment of attorney's fees.

The court ordered that Lewis M. Blanton be paid the sum of $4,000 out of the assets of the estate as a partial fee for his services as attorney and the executors take credit therefore on their next settlement.

Harry C. Blanton, deceased: order allowing payment of partial executor's fee.

The court ordered that Henry Joseph Cyllen Blanton and James Patrick Tlapek be paid $4,000 each out of the assets of the estate as partial executors' fee for their service and that executors be given credit on their next settlement.

Rebecca Anita Dockins, minor: order.

Co- guardian Evelyn Dockins petitioned for authority to spend the sum of $100 for necessities of minor and the court after being sufficiently advised found the expenditure consistent with ward's best interest. The court directed the co- guardian to expend the sum for said ward and take credit therefore on the settlement.

Max A. Dodd: deceased: Order refusing letters of administrator.

The court ordered that Bobbie Iolene Dodd, surviving spouse of the deceased, shall not be granted the letters of estate unless, on the application presented of creditors or other parties interested, the existence of other or further property is shown.

IT NEVER RAINS IN LOS ANGELES
by Charles Flowers
(Avon 16766/$1.25
224 pp.)

A white high school teacher is determined to find the killer of one of his best students, a black radical leader, in Charles Flowers' novel IT NEVER RAINS IN LOS ANGELES, now in paperback from Avon. The search pits the young teacher against the Los Angeles police and two militant black groups, all of whom are anxious to find the killer, but for different reasons. The path leads through the ghettos of Los Angeles' Watts district and examines the internecine warfare between factions of the black revolution.

IT NEVER RAINS IN LOS ANGELES won the Thomas R. Coward prize and was hailed by The New York Times as "a brilliant tour de force."

MY FLAG

My flag has no walls or curtain around it.

My flag has a past seasoned with courage and strength, unyielding loyalty and true patriotism.

My flag stands proudly at home, in houses of worship, of all faiths, of all peoples, of all colors and creeds, in this rich land of ours.

My flag stands for the true meaning of freedom . . . the right to enhance, to improve, to respect, to build, to worship, to share.

My flag never guaranteed an easy life or the right to slander, to destroy, to break the law.

My flag wears its colors with dignity and pride, with the hope that all the people of this Nation will remember its magnificent heritage, and remain through difficult times, united for truth and right.

My flag was sewn together with Brotherly Love, determination and gratitude, with love for God and man.

My flag used to receive the Pledge of Allegiance by the children in public schools. The pledge was to a symbol that stood for fifty different states, different peoples, with different problems . . . but all united in one desire. The desire to be one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The Lucy Jefferson Lewis Chapter of Daughters of American Revolution and JAC clubs asks you to observe Veterans Day, November 11, by flying your flag.

Dear Editor:

It is reported that a plan is afoot to eliminate the Justice Department's list of 300 subversive organizations.

It is said that the Department of Justice claims the list is worthless. Far from being "worthless" however, the Attorney General's List of Subversive Organizations has been (and still is) extremely important and useful to security evaluators. Elimination of this list would deprive security officers of the use of important criteria necessary for proper security evaluations and background checks.

Let's not be naive and stupid!

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley, President

U.S. FORCES, Germany (AHTNC) — Army Private First Class Jerry L. Hicks, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hicks, Route 1, Portageville, Mo., participated with other American and allied troops in exercise Reforger V in Germany, Oct. 10-16.

The military airlift command flew approximately 11,000 U. S.- based soldiers and more than 1,000 tons of equipment to three different airfields in Germany in preparation for the event.

Immediately after arriving overseas, the redeployed units drew combat gear and vehicles from prepositioned storage sites in Germany and moved to the exercise area to begin the seven- day field maneuver.

Pitted against the airlifted forces were Europe- based elements of NATO forces of the U.S., Germany and Canada.

The exercise, conducted by the joint chiefs of staff and NATO, focused on the procedures and techniques for receiving, equipping, assembling and employing units after they arrive, rather than on rapid deployment of troops from the U.S.

Coal production could increase in 8 months

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The coal industry could increase production within eight months at existing mines and also open new mines to help alleviate the nation's current energy crisis, William Hartman, vice president of Peabody Coal Co., said Friday.

That time, he said, would be needed to hire and train additional employes and obtain more mining equipment.

But Hartman said the industry will probably wait for Congress to pass enabling legislation before doing so. Peabody is one of the nation's largest coal producers and has extensive reserves in Illinois.

He noted that the President's energy message earlier this week will have to be clarified, especially the part suggesting that power plants and factories be exempted for one year from air and water quality laws.

If that means that high sulfer coal can be used for only that one-year period, Hartman said he doubted if coal production would be increased.

"A capital investment cannot be made in a coal mine, or in the expansion of an existing mine, if we cannot sell the product long enough to pay for the investment," he pointed out.

"Congress is the key here, and we will watch and see what they do," Hartman went on. "While the President made a policy statement, the real nuts and bolts are what Congress will permit us to do."

Bad Days at Black Computer

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Everybody wants computers. The Japanese are still protecting their infant industry against outsiders. The leaders of Eastern Europe feel out of it, mad with envy over our third and fourth generation marvels.

Maybe these folks can get their fever down a little if they hear how it goes with the computer in the United States. The thing may be clicking away merrily in various scientific centers, at the Social Security Administration, and a few other lucky places. But as it affects my household, and a lot of others I hear about, it's a frost.

Some charge-plate outfit based in Baltimore but handy for Washingtonians recently solicited us. A couple of times, efficient-sounding women called to inquire meticulously after basic information, all pretty simple stuff.

The results? Two credit card accounts instead of the one we asked for, each with my name misspelled in a different way. One actual credit card delivered, not to me but to my wife, for whom we did not seek one. The name on the card was misspelled, too. There were already billings to both accounts, although I was assured upon telephoning the company in Baltimore that that was impossible. One account was to the office address, which had been given only as backup information.

Bad Day at Black Computer was not over. Several weeks ago, with great fanfare in the nation's Amusement pages, the American Film Theater announced a series of limited showings (only twice a month) for a batch of special new movies with star-studded casts. That great master of computer operations, American Express, was to handle subscriptions and billings through its regular credit card system.

Soon after filling out the application blank with the advertisement, we got a nice form letter of thanks for the order, with word we'd hear again, and a code number for our "charter subscription account" which the theater firm said "is yours, alone."

Weeks passed, with no tickets coming. Finally I called the American Film Theater office in Washington, and learned that thousands upon thousands of tickets had gone astray — some for the Washington area to North Carolina.

I was given a New York City telephone number to call collect, and it was explained New York would send a telegram in lieu of tickets for the first movie, since it was otherwise too late to correct the error.

In about 10 tries, the New York number was always busy, as you can imagine. When it at last rang, I got a recorded announcement saying "all lines are busy, please call back later." Later would be after the movie.

I resisted the impulse to call the president of American Express, to whom I once sent a hot-collared telegram which brought instant action. This time I chose the good old public relations department, which promised to break through the log jam of busy signals and get me my tickets. At this moment, I'm waiting.

Just so you don't think the old-fashioned, noncomputerized world is moving altogether smoothly, this week we got eight pieces of misdirected mail. And, in response to her order, my wife got a refrigerator ice-tray holder which doesn't fit the one ice-tray they sent rather than the three asked for.

The people who pulled these bloopers are probably on the escalator and will soon be feeding computers misinformation. Still interested, you folks out there in Tokyo, Warsaw, Prague, Budapest?

Governor's limousine to be auctioned

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The governor's limousine, which cost more than $11,000 when it was purchased in 1969, will be sold Nov. 17 in a public auction, the governor's office announced Friday.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond has used a leased car, a Lincoln, or his own car, a Buick, while the state owned Cadillac sat in the capitol basement.

A governor's spokesman said that by the time the governor's term is over in 1976, the car would be seven years old and the trade-in value would be less. There are no plans to replace the Cadillac, a governor's spokesman said.

Other items to be auctioned are 50 state vehciles, 75 highbacked oak rocking chairs, 100 milk cans, a walking plow, oak buffet, old-fashioned washboards, cameras and office furniture.

The sale will be at 10 a.m. just east of the state prison in Jefferson City.

Seals show 12 days of Christmas

Children don't come cheaper by the dozen anymore. Not with today's costs. Neither do Christmas Seals. But this year they do come in twelves.

The Seals show the twelve days of Christmas, from the partridge in a pear tree to the twelve drummers drumming. The fun of the song has always been trying to remember the long list of "gifts" that "my true love sent to me." At midwinter festivals in jolly old England, the lyrics were not only a test of memory but also a measure of spirits imbibed.

Nobody knows how old the rollicking folksong is or who wrote it. But it is a carol of great charm and antiquity, a song of wandering minstrels and Christmas fairs. During one period, the song was relegated to the nursery as a forfeit game. Each child had to give up something when the lyrics were forgotten. At another time, the song was accompanied by dancing and asking alms for those in need.

The song honors the twelve days from December 25 to Epiphany, January 6, the day the Three Wise Kings arrived from the East to visit the Christ Child. Christmas Seals continue the tradition of giving. Contributions support today's fight against lung disease.

In contrast to the carol, the origins of this year's Christmas Seals are well known. They were designed by twenty- three year old Cheri Johnson who says her creations were the personal expression of her love for the holiday season. She hopes others, she says, "will react to the Seals in another personal way -- with a generous contribution."

Today's fight for clean air and healthy lungs is everyone's problem. As you live and breathe, give more to Christmas Seals. They fight air pollution, TB, emphysema, and cigarette smoking.

THEY WATCH THEIR QUEUES, ANYWAY

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — Turks have become used to queuing for a number of purposes, but a new sort of queue has hit Izmir.

With an average of 28 deaths a day and only eight hearses, the dead have to line up for their last trip.

Brilliant autumn in black and white...

Some 400 million board feet of timber from dead Douglas fir trees may decay before loggers can cut the trees, this year.

Past prices give inflation insight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A look at food prices in the decade since 1963, when hamburger cost 49 cents a pound and milk sold for 47 cents a half gallon, gives a clear picture of what inflation is all about.

And although federal economists issue month-by-month reports on inflation and the cost of living, sometimes more can be learned by looking at the dollar-and-cents impact on certain products.

As examples, take the soaring costs in four sample cities for such basics as bread, hamburger, milk and eggs. And add some onions.

All prices were August averages compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for New York City, Minneapolis, Houston, and San Francisco.

In 10 years, the price of hamburger has doubled, with eggs and onions increasing at nearly the same rate. Milk cost onethird more, and bread is 25 per cent higher.

Most of the inflation has come in the five years since 1968, the year the U.S.S. Pueblo was seized by North Korea and the moon was orbited for the first time.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says food prices will return to their old levels the day new Chevrolets cost $1,000.

However, a Chevrolet cost twice that much 10 years ago. At that time in the four cities, bread averaged 22 cents a loaf, hamburger cost 49 cents a pound, milk was 47 cents a half gallon, grade A large eggs were 53 cents a dozen and onions went for 13 cents a pound.

In 1968, the bread cost 24 cents; hamburger, 61 cents; milk, 51 cents; eggs were still about 53 cents; and onions were up to 15 cents.

In 1973, the bread cost 28 cents; hamburger, $1.06; milk, 64 cents; eggs, 96 cents; and the onions were 23 cents.

Opposition expected to bill

JEFFERSON CITY — Attorney General John C. Danforth's proposal to tighten Missouri's drunken driving laws will face tough sledding in the legislature, most observers feel.

Rep. Hal Lowenstein, a Kansas City Republican, will introduce what Danforth has described as "the toughest package of DWI legislation in the country" during the upcoming session of the Missouri General Assembly.

The proposed law would provide for the automatic revocation of a driver's license seven days after his arrest for driving while intoxicated, make it more difficult to obtain hardship driving privileges, and allow the authorities to impound the vehicle of a person caught driving while his license is suspended or revoked.

Proponents of the measure point to the legislature's passage of a law reducing, from .15 per cent to .10 per cent, the percentage of alcohol in the blood required for a driver to be declared drunk as a sign that these new measures will gain public, and legislative, acceptance.

However, a minor portion of the newly proposed legislation, a section that makes the assessment of 12 points apply to convictions for drunk driving under both state and local ordinances, failed during the last session. Current law provides for the assessment of six points for a conviction for driving while intoxicated in municipal courts. The assessment of 12 points within a one- year period allows state officials to revoke a driver's license for a year.

At least two legislators have expressed public opposition to Danforth's proposals. Rep. Kenneth Rothman, the House majority leader, said, "I would hate to see such a critical item in everyday life as a driver's license revoked in a one- man administrative decision without a day in court. Revoking the license, or impounding and selling a car would be punishing a man more severely than a lot of misdemeanors. It seems to me that if the case is good enough to justify impounding a car, it ought to be good enough to make a criminal case."

Rep. Fred Williams (D-St. Louis) also questioned the proposed law in a letter to the Attorney General.

As the law is proposed, the officer making an arrest for driving while intoxicated, driving under the influence of drugs, or leaving the scene of an accident would mark the offender's license to indicate that it would expire in seven days. The driver then would be required to request a hearing before the director of revenue during the seven day period. If the hearing were requested within the allotted time, the driver would receive a temporary permit to drive until the hearing date. If no request for a hearing were made, the license would be revoked automatically.

At the hearing, the director of revenue would make a determination of whether the license should be revoked based on the testimony of the arresting officer and a Breathalyzer test. Should the director rule against the driver, the revocation could be appealed to a circuit court.

It would be "theorically possible" that a person could be acquited of the drunk driving charge in court, but still lose his license, according to Danforth. "The administrative decision to revoke the license would not depend on criminal conviction of driving while intoxicated," the Attorney General said.

The proposed law also would place jurisdiction for hardship driving privileges only in circuit courts and require a notice to the director of revenue who would be represented in the proceedings. Under present law, hardship driving privileges may be obtained in both magistrate and circuit court, and there is no requirement that prior notice be given the revenue director.

The hardship driving privilege would not be granted more than once to any individual, and could not be issued to persons who were involved in accidents involving personal injury or property damage.

In the case of a person caught driving while his license was suspended or revoked, the arresting officer would be allowed to seize the vehicle as contraband. He would then notify the director of revenue, who would initiate a suit for the forfeiture of the vehicle. If the car were owned by someone other than the driver, the owner would be given notice and given the opportunity to regain the vehicle by contending that its illegal use was without his consent or knowledge.

Proceeds from the sale of impounded vehicles would go to county school funds.

No proof that cooler rooms are healthier

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's prescription for lower room temperatures to save energy has the backing of some leading doctors. But they say there are no real scientific studies to prove cooler rooms are healthier.

"It's the kind of thing family doctors say all the time. I don't know anybody who would quarrel with it," said Dr. George Reader, chairman of the Public Health Department at New York Hospital — Cornell Medical Center.

"He was wishing so — that it would be healthier. I heard him speak and I agree with him in general, but there is probably little hard data. No one has done a study that shows lowering temperature makes you healthier," Reader said. He added, however, that he thought lower temperatures might mean a slightly less risk of catching cold.

President Nixon said Wednesday night that he wanted the nation to lower temperatures in the home by six degrees to a daytime average of 68. He asked offices factories and stores to achieve the equivalent of a 10- degree reduction by lowering the thermostat or curtailing working hours.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Treated With Antibiotics

Disease Is a Heart Infection

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Recently I was hospitalized for subacute bacterial endocarditis. It was explained as bacteria in the heart valve. My temperature was erratic and went as high as 102 degrees. I felt tired and listless all the time. After 11 days of intravenous penicillin, the symptoms disappeared. My temperature was normal and I feel fine. Could you please explain this disease more fully? What causes it or how do you get it? I was told it does not cause heart attacks. Is it contagious?

Dear Reader—Endocarditis means inflammation of the inside of the heart. Bacterial endocarditis merely identifies that bacteria are the cause. Germs lodge usually on the valve leaflets inside the heart and start an infection. Usually individuals who have this problem have had damage to the heart valve before, commonly from rheumatic heart disease. Birth defects of the heart also predispose to this problem. The infection that develops on the inside of the heart may cause no major damage or it can destroy the heart valve leaving the heart damaged even after the infection had been cured. Small pieces of tissue from the infected area can become dislodged inside the heart and be circulated to other parts of the body.

It's obviously a very important and serious disease when it occurs. Like most infections, it's treated with antibiotics. The choice of antibiotic medicine depends on what kind of germ is causing the problem. Large doses of antibiotics are commonly given until the infection has been eradicated. At that time, the temperature returns to normal and the patient recovers.

Because this is a serious disease, it deserves immediate treatment and even better, it should be prevented. For this reason, heart specialists ask individuals who have damage to their heart valves or birth defects of the heart, to take antibiotics any time they have a respiratory illness, an operation or a dental procedure. Even chewing vigorously will sometimes cause bacteria around the teeth to be dislodged into the blood stream. Then they are carried by the circulation to the heart and if you already have a defect the bacteria may lodge on the heart valve and set up the infection. Taking antibiotics at the time of dental procedures is a must for people with damaged valves or birth defects of the heart and simply having the teeth cleaned alone is a dental procedure. I have seen more than one case of bacterial endocarditis follow simple cleaning of the teeth which had been disregarded and the patient had failed to take the protective antibiotics that his doctor had recommended.

I want to make it clear that for normal, healthy people antibiotics for dental procedures are not necessary. The antibiotic protective measures to prevent bacterial endocarditis are for individuals who already have a problem, specifically, damaged heart valves or birth defects and of course anyone who has ever had bacterial endocarditis in the past.

Study made on women smokers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women who work outside the home have a higher smoking rate than housewives, a new government study shows.

The study also reports that:

—On the basis of marital status among women, the smoking rate was highest for those divorced or separated, lowest for widows.

—On the basis of education among women, smoking rates were highest for those who ended their education with some high school classes or with a high school diploma, lowest for those whose education was grade school or less.

—Fewer women were smoking in 1970, compared to 1966, but the reduction was not as much as that for men.

The study is a report on changes in women's smoking behavior, based on national surveys directed by the Public Health Service in 1966 and 1970. The analysis was made by Dorothy E. Green, a branch chief, and Daniel E. Nemzer, computer analyst, at the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health.

The smoking rate for U.S. adults, 21 years of age and over, fell from 42.2 per cent in 1966 to 36.2 per cent in 1970.

Among men, the smoking rate fell sharply, from 51.9 per cent to 42.3 per cent, the study reports. But for women, it fell only from 33.7 per cent to 30.5 per cent.

The analysis says that the smoking rate increased among single women and decreased among married women and adds as a possible explanation:

"Many single women are employed in offices, where they may be influenced by the higher smoking rates of men. A woman earning a salary may feel more free to spend it on a form of personal gratification like cigarettes.

"On the other hand, married women are likely to spend less time with people who smoke; some wives give up smoking during pregnancy to avoid possible damage to the fetus, or mothers may avoid smoking to set a good example for their children."

The statistics show that the smoking rate of 37 per cent for women employed outside the home remained unchanged from 1966 to 1970. But the rate among women not employed outside the home, primarily housewives, decreased from 32 per cent in 1966 to 27 per cent in 1970.

The study also takes note of the worry among women, as well as men, that they might gain weight if they stopped smoking.

But weight gain, although more likely to occur as the appetite improves, isn't inevitable, it says.

"In fact, about one in four who quits smoking loses weight," the report says. "It may be that when people change one habit to improve their health, they also have more confidence to conquer other habits."

House nearing vote on Alaska Pipeline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is nearing a vote on the Alaska Oil Pipeline bill, but the legislation is threatened by a controversy over an amendment affecting the Federal Trade Commission.

This amendment would give the FTC the power to obtain more information about the businesses it regulates.

Last Wednesday, opponents of the FTC proposal forced a delay in action on the bill, which is designed to clear the way for piping oil from Alaska's North Slope to the port city of Valdez on Alaska's southern coast.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., said that when the bill came up again he would move to have it sent back to a House-Senate conference committee to be stripped of the features sought by the FTC.

A vote was scheduled for today.

At issue are tacked-on amendments which would broaden the powers of the FTC and other regulatory agencies. Among other things, they would allow the agencies to conduct business surveys without getting approval of the Office of Management and Budget.

The FTC supports this because it has been trying since 1971 to get the budget office to approve a plan under which businesses in providing statistics, would break them down by product lines.

The agency contends that International Telephone & Telegraph, for instance, is one of the nation's largest producers of bakery goods, yet the statistics it provides the government do not reflect this.

Under present procedures the budget agency seeks public comment, including the reactions of the businesses involved, on proposals such as the socalled "product line reporting." It then has the option of vetoing the proposals.

Roy Ash, director of budget office, has said he will recommend that President Nixon veto the bill if it reaches him in its present form. The amendments reportedly were put on the pipeline measure in the first place because their supporters knew they would be vetoed if passed as a separate bill.

Supporters of the pipeline measure wrote the President last Friday that returning it to conference to remove the disputed sections would open up other areas, agreed to with difficulty by the conferees, and delay a start on the pipeline.

NEW YORK (AP) — World production of gold this year is expected to drop considerably even though its price is pushing another "gold rush," according to Gary Reibsamen, editor of "Metals Sourcebook," a newsletter on international developments in metals supply.

Gold shot up to over $100 an ounce this year, compared with $65 in 1972 and $40 in mid-1971. World output last year was 44.7 million ounces, down 3.3 per cent from 1971.

Firemen stalk blaze

Sikeston firemen fought a blaze late Sunday night at the home of Mrs. Merrian Brown, 1114 Osage. Volunteer firemen David Taylor, left, and Dennis Overbey, two of the firemen on the scene, guide hoses and pinpoint still glowing embers in the walls. The fire apparently started from faulty wiring in the kitchen area.

Nixon to turn over additional tapes, dictations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today that he will turn over to a federal court additional personal notes and dictation belts and further reels of White House tapes in an effort to clear up "once and for all" doubts about two crucial Watergate conversations.

The White House announced two weeks ago that subpoenaed tapes of the two conversations did not exist. Today, a White House lawyer said a subpoenaed recording supposedly dictated by Nixon did not exist.

In an announcement, Nixon said he has also agreed that a court-approved independent expert "employing the most advanced technological methods can examine all tapes in question for any evidence of alteration to the tapes."

Nixon said he is taking these steps to "help determine the substance of all nine conversations subpoenaed by the court."

Watergate prosecutors had subpoenaed nine White House Watergate-related tape recordings and allied documents.

Nixon said "there is no question in my mind but that the open court hearing, now being conducted, will demonstrate to the court's satisfaction the truth of our statements that these conversations were never recorded."

He referred to a four-minute talk with former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell on June 20, 1972 and a 55-minute session with former White House counsel John W. Dean III on April 15, 1973.

The White House has told the court that these conversations were never recorded — the Mitchell one because it was on a phone not hooked into the taping system, and the Dean one because a recording reel ran out of tape.

The White House announcements that two of the nine subpoeaned tapes never existed led to a hearing before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

Nixon's announcement today marked his first major step in a newly announced effort to tell his side of the Watergate affair and attempt to clear up questions.

He presented his statement at a 90-minute breakfast meeting with members of the Republican Coordinating Committee — the first of a series of meetings he plans to hold this week with all of the Republican members of Congress and some Democratic congressmen as well.

Nixon said that since coming to office he has maintained a personal diary file which consists of notes he personally took during meetings and of dictation belts on which he recorded recollections.

Nixon said he has located a dictation belt he recorded on the evening of June 20, 1972, which included references to the telephone call with Mitchell and he is going to submit that to the court.

10 hurt in 6 auto accidents

Ten persons were injured in six area traffic accidents over the weekend, the highway patrol reported today.

Sherman Reeves, 20, of Bloomfield received head cuts Saturday at 3 a.m. on Route M eight miles northeast of Puxico when his automobile came over a hill, ran off the road, struck a tree and overturned.

He was taken to Veterans Hospital in Poplar Bluff for treatment.

John Wood, 19, of Indianapolis, Ind., received a minor shoulder injury at 6:30 a.m. Saturday on Highway 67 eight miles south of Fredericktown when his car ran off the road and overturned.

He was taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital in Fredericktown.

Two persons were injured at 9 p.m. Saturday on Oriole Road three miles north of Cape Girardeau when a car driven by Louis Keil, 21, of St. Louis ran off the road and overturned.

Injured in the accident were Darrel Tucker, 20, of St. Charles and James Brendel, 21, of St. Louis. Both received minor injuries and were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

An accident at 6:05 p.m. Sunday on a gravel road eight miles north of Cape Girardeau resulted in four injuries.

The accident occurred when a south bound car driven by Robert Welker, 21, of Jackson came over a hill on the wrong side of the road and collided with a northbound car driven by Nelson King Jr., 25, of Jackson.

Welker and King received minor injuries, as did Mark Farrow, 15, of Jackson, a passenger in the Welker car, and Cecil Hale, 18, of Patton, a passenger in the King auto. All four were taken to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Two men stationed at Blytheville Air Force Base near Blytheville, Ark., were slightly injured at 9 p.m. Sunday on Route NN one mile north of the Missouri-Arkansas Line when a northbound car driven by Michael Kriz, 19, ran off the road and stuck a bridge railing.

Kriz and a passenger, Charles Jones, 20, were taken to the base hospital.

Teeth survive fire

Mrs. Merrian Brown holds a set of false teeth, the only thing that appears to have survived in good condition in a fire which virtually destroyed her home Sunday night. The teeth are still in a plastic cup filled with water which insulated them from the intense heat that melted the outside of the cup.

Patrol to cruise at 50 m.p.h.

POPLAR BLUFF — Capt. Wayne C. Brooks, highway patrol Troop E commander, said today the troop will comply with the requests from Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond to conserve energy due to fuel shortages.

Brooks said all routine patrol cars will maintain a speed limit of 50 miles per hour and said the thermostat on the heating unit at patrol headquarters has been dialed down to 68 degrees.

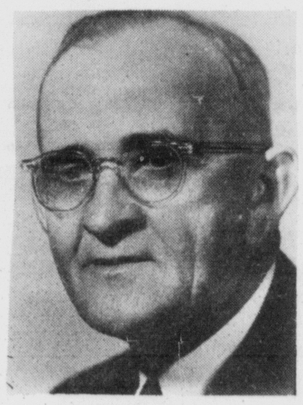
Brooks also said that from now on highway patrol reports on injuries in highway accidents will be listed only as minor, serious, or critical. Obtaining a list of individual injuries, as has been done in the past, takes up a lot of a trooper's time that could be used for other purposes, Brooks remarked.

James Scott, former MissCo sheriff dies

EAST PRAIRIE--- James Ernest Scott, 80, who served as sheriff of Mississippi County from 1940 through 1959, died at 11 a.m. Sunday in Bertrand Retirement Home following an extended illness.

A life- long resident of Mississippi County, he was born Jan. 1, 1893 in Charleston to the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Scott.

Scott served one term as mayor of East Prairie and was instrumental in securing the city's water system. He was also a landowner and farmer and a member of First Church of God in East Prairie.



James E. Scott

On April 6, 1914, he married Ora C. Cobb, who died on Jan. 8, 1962.

Surviving are his second wife, Mrs. Edna Diener Scott of Geneva, Ill., and one son, James Scott of East Prairie.

The body is at Shelby Funeral Home where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Tuesday. The Revs. Grady Hogue, pastor of First Church of God of Metropolis, Ill., and Winfred Caudell, pastor of First Church of God of East Prairie, will officiate.

Burial will be in the IOOF Cemetery near Charleston.

Saddles and bridles stolen

Three saddles and four bridles valued at more than $400 were discovered missing Saturday from a barn near the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo Grounds, according to police.

The riding equipment belonged to U. L. Standridge and two sons. They were reported stolen between Wednesday and Saturday.

2 arrested; dynamite sticks found in truck

CHARLESTON — Charges of possession of explosives may be filed against two men arrested Saturday, according to Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons.

Roger Scott, 22, of East Prairie and Dale Crump, 21, of rural Matthews were arrested about 2 a.m. Saturday in East Prairie by highway patrol Trooper Norris Grissom on charges of driving while intoxicated and taken to the Mississippi County jail in Charleston.

Simmons said Grissom returned to East Prairie to check the license plates on Crump's truck and saw dynamite on the floorboard. Crump was returned to East Prairie where a search of the truck revealed 11 sticks of loose dynamite, 31 dynamite caps and three sticks of dynamite tied together with a fuse and cap attached, according to Simmons.

Possession of explosives is a federal charge and the matter has been turned over to the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Scott and Crump were released on $250 bond each on the driving while intoxicated charges.

N. Madrid apartment is damaged by fire

NEW MADRID — Firemen fought a fire in a second story apartment at Stover's Apartments, 222 Main St., for over an hour Sunday before bringing it under control.

No one was home at the time of the fire in the apartment occupied by Stover's daughter, Mrs. Glenda Ray.

Another occupant of the second floor, Mrs. Jennie Tribbey, was led from the building by firemen.

The fire was reported at 5:15 p.m. by passing youngsters who saw flames coming from an upper story window.

An estimate of the damage is not available, but the interior of the Ray apartment and its contents received extensive damage and the lower floor of the building received water damage.

Cause of the fire is believed to be an overloaded wiring circuit connected to an electric heater.

Fire guts home of Sikeston family

Fire gutted the Merrian Brown home, 1114 Osage St., shortly after 9 p.m. Sunday.

The fire was blamed on an electrical short in a teapot.

The six- room frame house was charred throughout, and the family lost most of its possessions.

Firemen were called back at 11:45 p.m. when a smoldering mattress broke into flames.

Three fires reported on Saturday included a minor electrical fire at 10:20 a.m. at Dame's Feed Store on North Kingshighway, a fire at 10:47 a.m. in the heater of a truck owned by C. L. Gadberry in the parking lot of Bob's Salvage Store on West Malone Avenue and a grassfire at 3 p.m. on Franklin Street.

Dover arrested

Tommy Dover, 721 Smith St., has been arrested for investigation of possession of controlled substances and driving while drinking, according to the Scott County sheriff's department.

Dover, a former city policeman and deputy sheriff was placed in the Sikeston jail, but later posted bond and was released.

He was arrested by Sheriff John Dennis and Deputy Bud Jones.

Old Morehouse Theater razed

The Old Morehouse Theater was razed by fire Saturday morning. The building, which had been condemned, was set afire about 11 a.m. at the request of the owners. The theater, empty for about 25 years, reportedly will be replaced by a car lot.

PUBLIC OPINION CHANGES

It wasn't long ago when a substantial proportion of public opinion ran against the annual practice of shifting to "daylight saving" time in the Spring, and then back to standard time in the Fall. Today, public opinion appears to be shifting the other way. One Representative in Washington reports that his mail is running in favor of year- round daylight saving time by a margin of 20-1.

Then, too, the most common reason given for support of "fast time" was once "for increased leisure time." Today, the most frequently mentioned reasons for favoring year- round daylight saving time are energy conservation and greater public safety.

Time and circumstances change many things, including public opinion.

Federal tax collections will increase about $385 per household in the government's fiscal year ending next June 30 says Tax Foundation Inc.

Based on a booming economy, more and higher incomes, and higher social security taxes next January, the government recently upped tax collection estimates to $258 billion. That is equal to $3,686 per household, compared to the $3,301 collected in the previous 12 months.

Subject to Congressional changes, the government planned to spend the $3,686 as follows:

Total	$3,686

SALT IN THE WOUNDS

Defense experts agree that the treaties negotiated in Phase I of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) were a disaster for the United States. Now it appears that Phase II will be equally bad.

The Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) has prepared and disseminated a series of working papers for the next round of disarmament talks. These can be regarded as authoritative, since the chief of the SALT negotiations is also the chairman of ACDA, and the agency provides the technical data used by negotiators.

These working papers ignore the Jackson amendment to the SALT I treaties urging US negotiators to seek equality with the Soviets in "levels of intercontinental strategic forces." ACDA recommends no attempt to change the imbalance in missile weaponry which now favors the Soviets.

Instead, the report presses for the US to allow the Soviets new advantages in the areas of long- range bombers and multiple warheads. The ACDA bureaucracy also insists that our government surrender its Forward Based Systems, that is, the US aircraft stationed in Germany which are capable of carrying nuclear weapons.

Experts in the field of strategic weaponry have pointed out that SALT I gives the Soviets as much as 50 per cent advantage in land- based offensive missiles and a similar advantage in sea-based missiles. Now the ACDA is recommending that the remaining areas of US strength be negotiated away.

Instead of consulting ACDA, the Administration should seek advice from military men responsible for defending our country. A nation's defense policy should ensure that nation's survival. The ACDA proposals would seriously jeopardize our security.

WATERGATE BRED IN LAWLESS '60S?

Watergate has been a cruel blow to those young people who have been resisting the radical and "counterculture" temper of their generation, thinks New York University professor Iving Kristol.

In the past few years, he says, young people have needed considerable courage to affirm publicly not only their support of President Nixon but of certain traditional values, like patriotism. Now, he laments, they have been rewarded with personal humiliation and political shame.

The charge is quite valid, and while it can be pointed out that a great many older Americans may share the feelings of humiliation and shame, young people, being young, no doubt feel them more acutely.

Yet on this question of disillusionment and deceit, some recent Watergate committee testimony is extremely pertinent.

The witness was Jeb Staurt Magruder, former deputy director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President (and it was CREP, let it never be forgotten, not the GOP, which engineered the Watergate break-in and other assorted depredations against the democratic process).

Pressed by Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., to explain why he, Magruder, and the others that Magruder had implicated had done what they had done, approving burglary and then compounding it with perjury, when they knew all along that it was wrong, Magruder spoke of a kind of erosion of moral sense, if not common sense, in the men pledged to serve the President.

He spoke of witnessing "continuing violations of the law" by men like William Sloane Coffin, from whom he had once taken a course in ethics. At a rally on the grounds of the Washington Monument, Coffin, now a chaplian at Yale University, urged students to burn their draft cards and demonstate against the government.

Magruder also spoke of a "certain atmosphere" that developed in the White House, the feeling that if the dissenters could break the law, then it was legitimate to fight fire with fire.

None of this, of course, is any defense whatsoever. It also ignores the vast difference between the activities of the anti-war dissenters, which for the most part were public and open, were not aimed at denying anyone's civil liberties and invited punishment, and those of the Watergate conspirators, which were secret, were a betrayal of public trust and were capped with elaborate attempts to cover up and evade responsibility and punishment.

Nevertheless, Magruder's testimony is the first real evidence we have had of the deeper effects of the years of dissent.

There never was any danger that the antiwar dissenters or even the more violent radicals could overthrow the government. Yet by practicing the breaking of the law in the name of a higher morality, by glorifying simple vandalism or hooliganism, by creating such distrust and tension on one campus that National Guardsmen could turn and shoot down their own contemporaries, the antiwar movement created a psychic environment in which the Watergate conspirators could breed.

It will remain for historians to judge which was responsibile for inflicting the most grevious wound on the body of American democracy — Watergate or the righteous lawlessness of the 1960s.

Magruder at least told the investigating senators that he had learned that "two wrongs don't make a right." This is far more than has ever been conceded by some of the spokesmen for the dissenters.

CITIZENS AGAINST CRIME

On three occasions within a week, New Yorkers who were chance witnesses to street crimes have taken an active part either in apprehending the suspects or in assisting the police in making the arrests.

In one instance, three local citizens actually gave chase and captured two suspected muggers near the scene of the violent attack. In another incident, passersby surrounded a taxicab in which three suspects attempted to flee from the scene of a purse-snatching and formed a human barrier until police could take over. In the third episode, the neighbors of a 9-year - old girl who was alleged to have been the victim of an attempted rape overpowered the suspect and turned him over to the police.

Although the last of these citizen actions may, in fact, have been carried out with an excessive use of force, leaving the suspect unconscious, the cumulative message of the three incidents points to a gratifying re-emergence of public cooperation with police efforts to combat crime. It is an encouraging departure from what in the past has too often appeared to be either an attitude of resignation and indifference or an actual tendency to condone criminal acts.

Ultimately, the war against violent street crime must, of course, be carried on and won by trained and authorized law-enforcement personnel. But the changes for victory over the muggers will be infinitely greater in an atmosphere of public condemnation of the criminals and active support of the law. — New York Times

Public officials seem to have an irresistible urge to play God in the promulgation of rules governing our lives. In one of his columns, Mr. James J. Kilpatrick describes a type of rule making which reaches a new high in presumption of the last words in wisdom.

In spite of differences of opinion of competent scientific authorities, the government has issued a fiat that all foods that are fortified or enriched must hereafter bear elaborate labels. Quoting from the law, Mr. Kilpatrick finds these "findings of fact": "There is no rationale for allowing the promotion of dietary supplements of vitamins and - or minerals to the general American population for the purpose of treating diseases or symptoms ... Lay persons are incapable of determining, by themselves, whether they have vitamin or mineral deficiencies ... Vitamin or mineral deficiencies are unrelated to the great majority of symptoms like tiredness, nervousness, and rundown condition ..."

Mr. Kilpatrick asks, "These are facts?" and adds, "Since when are they facts? To be sure, certain experts advance these assertions. Other experts deny them ... Nutrition is not an exact science." In his view, rules such as these are examples of confusing "... bureaucratic power with divine power." A great many Americans who still believe in self- determination of what is good or not good for them will say "Amen" to that.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

One of the best ways that we, as citizens of Republic USA, can get the attention of government and civic leaders is by writing letters to the editor. There is no better forum for expression of opinion on matters both on the official and unofficial fronts. Elected leaders at all levels read the letters to the editor column. From these letters our leaders know what the people are thinking and how the electorate expects its public servants to perform. Innovations in law- making and enforcement often find expression in these popular columns. No page is more widely read with the exception of page one, perhaps.

To convey the writer's ideas in an effective form, letters should get to the point and be kept short. They often take some planning. If they are concise and clear, they will be widely read and appreciated. Their message may get action.

If you have not read the letters- to- the- editor column lately, we suggest you turn to that section and learn what your fellow citizens are thinking. You may get ideas from them. Then take pen in hand and pass your thoughts on to other readers via your favorite newspaper. Editors take note of these letters. They, too, learn a lot from the expression of ideas in the letters columns.

It is easy for one to complain to a neighbor about the affairs of the nation and the world. It is more constructive to suggest what can be done about them. Your fellow citizens may not agree with you, but your letter will give them some food for thought. Officials of government may not agree with you either. You never know until you try. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

'Plot' to Burn Brookings

WASHINGTON-- The reported White House plot to set fire to the esteemed Brookings Institute as a cover for an FBI burglary of its files, according to secret testimony, was no joke but a serious proposal from Charles Colson.

The former presidential trouble- shooter laughed off rumors earlier this year of a scheme to burn Brookings. When we told him about the sworn testimony we have now obtained, he dismissed it as "Disneyland East."

But the testimony was taken from no less than John Caulfield, the ex- Treasury Department aide and jack- of-all tricks, who did undercover work for the White House. He told the Senate Watergate investigators behind closed doors that he refused to start the Brookings fire because "enough is enough."

The preposterous plot raises specters of the Reichstag fire in 1933 when Adolf Hitler's aides conspired to burn down the German parliament so it could be blamed on the Communists.

JULY 1971

The mini- Reichstag by Nixon's aides, as detailed in a secret summary of Caulfield's testimony, was proposed "in early July of 1971." Caufield said Colson asked him "to get some national security documents from the office of Leslie Gelb (a former Defense Department official) at the Brookings Institute."

The careful Caulfield, uneasy about sneaking documents out of Gelb's office, warned Colson "of the difficulties that the project would cause because of the security questions."

Declares the document: "Colson suggested that one way of getting the information was to have the District of Columbia fire regulations changed and have the FBI respond to all arsons. Colson suggested that there could be a fire at the Brookings Institute and then the FBI could take the file out of Gelb's office."

Caulfield said he "believed that the clear implication was for (him) to start a fire there." But this was too much for the White House gumshoe. After hearing Colson's proposal, Caulfield "literally ran to (presidential counsel John) Dean's office" and said he was catching "the next plane to San Clemente because 'enough is enough.'"

DEAN'S INTEREST

Caulfield explained that Dean had also been interested in Brookings and had sought "background about its personnel and financing." Indeed, Dean may have had Brookings' tax returns "pulled...in the summer of 1971." But the Reichstag concept was also too much for Dean.

So Dean himself, rather than Caulfield, flew to San Clemente. Upon his return, Dean instructed Caulfield "to forget about Colson's project and the Brookings Institute." That was the last Caulfield "heard of the project," he testified, "until Colson brought it up at a wedding January 1973, and mentioned that he considered it a very funny joke."

Colson, in a talk with us, said "the story is Disneyland East and I have fully testified before federal investigating bodies as to the true circumstances."

Colson's friends insist he is given to overstatement in jest. He once made a joking remark, they recall, about sending in troops to close down the Washington Post presses.

FOOTNOTE: Caulfield, who did a good job as assistant director of the Treasury's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms unit after leaving the White House, lost his job and came down with ulcers in the wake of Watergate. Now jobless, with three children to support, he answered our inquiries with a polite "no comment." Gelb told us, incidentally, that he had no classified files.

INSIDE THE WHITE HOUSE: An embattled President Nixon discussed the pros and cons of resigning with his advisers before he declared to the nation his determination to stay in the White House, if physically able, until the end of his term.

The President told his aides solemnly that he would step down if he should ever feel his leadership was hurting America. But he felt that he had greater experience and understanding than any successor to deal with the foreign policy problems now facing the nation.

The implication of his remark was that he considered it a patriotic duty to remain on the job. He felt those who are now calling for his departure simply don't understand the gravity of the international crisis.

Nixon reminded aides that President Harry Truman had fought back an all- time, 23 per cent low in the polls. The American people like a fighter, said the President, who indicated he would follow this example.

He noted that the demands for his impeachment have already changed, largely, to calls for his resignation. He regards this as evidence that his foes doubt their ability to impeach him.

For him to resign, added the President, would be taken as an admission of guilt. Therefore, he intends to spend his remaining three years in office, battling, Truman- style, for his "rightful place in history."

LETTER TO BRANDT: President Nixon has written a conciliatory, secret letter to West Germany's Chancellor Willy Brandt, who had complained that the United States had ordered a worldwide alert without consulting the NATO allies and had moved military supplies from Germany to Israel at a time when West Germany was trying to maintain neutrality in the Arab- Israeli conflict.

The President promised in his letter to keep the allies more fully informed and to consult with them in the future before taking action affecting them.

Probe Both Sides:

Powerful Missouri Mafia Chiefs Got Strong Assist from Democratic Regime

WASHINGTON--- Somehow the rot of interwoven, corrupt, often lethal, Missouri unions, key Democratic politicians, and what is all too charitably known as the Mafia, tied in with Meyer Lansky of Old Murder, Inc. days, escapes the national limelight prosecution and punishment it deserves.

So corrupt is this combine, so intricately linked with national and international politics, and even the Lyndon Johnson White House, that it boggles the mind. Except for a few crusading newsmen, it goes virtually unreported.

Compare this, some of which I'll soon detail, with what happened when President Nixon automatically commuted the 12- year sentence of Genovese Mafia family chieftain Angelo (Gyp) DeCarlo last Dec. 20.

There was a political killer-hurricane. It hit the wire services, front pages and whipped up Sen. Scoop Jackson who charged that the then Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst and the former presidential counsel John Dean III had "bypassed normal procedures and safeguards" in freeing the brutal New Jersey Mafia leader. There was a two-month FBI investigation. Archibald Cox, then special prosecutor, got a report from the New Jersey U. S. Attorney Herb Stern.

There was nothing subtle in the reports across the land--- which practically accused Dick Nixon of freeing the Cosa Nostra "methodical gangland executioner" (an FBI description-- VR) as a personal favor to a friend.

Fact is that the Federal Bureau of Prisons had recommended that DeCarlo be released from the penitentiary for he would die in three to six months. It is traditional to send a prisoner home to die. DeCarlo, who had cancer of the prostate, lived 10 months. Gyp's death hardly got the play which his release received.

Now, it did happen that during the same week DeCarlo was commuted, in December 1972, three reputed underworld toughs, with fantastic connections, were pardoned by the outgoing Democratic party regime of the then Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Nationally this went unnoticed. Yet one of the three--- pardoned only a day after Nixon released the terminally ill DeCarlo--- is a well known St. Louis hood. He is Art Bernee, who took over some of the big money rackets of the late Buster Wortman across the river in East St. Louis, Ill. Bernee is believed, by informed St. Louis circles, to be an associate of regional Mafia men. Yet Tom Walsh, a former state Democratic Representative, acknowledged interceding for hoodlum Bernee.

And let it be known across this land that Walsh is president of the Missouri State Building Trades (union) Council. He is, in effect, the counterpart of what Secretary of Labor Brennan was in New York before joining the cabinet.

Presidency of a state AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Council is a prestigious labor post. Why would Tom Walsh urge the freeing of a muscle man believed by state and federal authorities to be an intimate of the Mafia?

Also pardoned on Dec. 21 was Thomas (Tommy Morgan) Cacioppo, an ex- con, who did time for kidnapping and armed robbery. He was pardoned over the opposition of the parole board.

"Tommy Morgan" Cacioppo is part of what some anti- crime authorities call the Kansas City Mafia elite. This anti- social register consists of seven names of alleged Cosa Nostra men who make up the upper echelon of the Kansas City Crime Syndicate. On this list are three Civellas--- Nick, his nephew Anthony (Tony Ripe) and Carl (Corky).

Reportedly Nick is the boss. He is alleged to be a friend of Meyer Lansky, the underworld living computer. He was one of the honored guests at the notorious Mafia cook- out convention on an Apalachin, N. Y., farm in 1957. Carl Civella is his brother and is father of Tony.

Tony was absolved on Dec. 15 by Gov. Hearnes.

Obviously, only a bit of the gory story can be related here. But in one fashion or another the whole machinery is tied in with the corrupt, nationally powerful Local 562, of the pipefitters' union which was once led by the late specialist in brutality and thievery, Larry Callanan. His son only recently was almost blown to bits by a car bomb--- but he lost only two legs and part of a hand. Larry Callanan was doing a long stretch in the federal pen when he was pardoned by Lyndon Johnson in April 1964.

After that, the bloodstained local's multimillion- dollar political fund donated $25,000 to "Friends of LBJ." And much more.

Certainly let's investigate Washington, the White House and Watergate into eternity. But let's have a single standard. Probe both sides.

Mayor expresses appreciation

Before signing a proclamation declaring this week to be Youth Appreciation Week in Sikeston, Mayor Frank Ferrell expressed his appreciation of youth to Sikeston High School students attending this morning's Optimist Club meeting at Holiday Inn. Students invited to the meeting and then on a tour of the fire department and city offices, front row, from left, are Gaither Daugherty, Mike Warfield, Nancy Hurley, Lea Ann Matthews and Brenda Yarber. Second row, Charles Grimm, Lee Clayton, David Horne, Tom Luber and Randy Rakestraw.

Youth Appreciation Week begins

Youth Appreciation Week, sponsored by the Sikeston Optimist Club, officially began at the club's breakfast meeting this morning at Holiday Inn where Mayor Frank Ferrell signed a proclamation and the club entertained 10 high school students.

Following the meeting, the students were taken on a tour of both fire stations, the police department and city offices, where they talked to Bill Whitlock, acting city manager.

Students participating in the tour were Mike Warfield, Randy Rakestraw, Lea Ann Matthews, Gaither Daugherty, Nancy Hurley, Tom Luber, Lee Clayton, David Horne, Brenda Yarber and Charles Grimm.

Harry Batts, director of vocational orientation at Sikeston High School, explained the program which seeks to put youth to work in the community, thus helping them to become productive citizens. His job, Batts explained, was to get the students out of school and into the hands of employers.

Optimists have also arranged for students to serve as disc jockeys on a local radio station from 6 to 7 p.m. each day this week.

Robert Bennett became a new member of the Optimist Club at this morning's meeting.

Ann Landers

Sisters try to exclude brother's wife from will

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17 and beautiful. This is not just my opinion. I have heard it from hundreds of people ever since I was old enough to know what the word meant. But I would gladly trade my beauty for a few more brains.

Since I was 14 I have been talked out of my maidenhood by at least 20 guys. I am ashamed of myself. The first time I was just plain snowed by oratory. The fellow was the captain of the debate team and I was no match for him. It seems the guys I go with give me such logical reasons why I should end up in bed with them I figure, "Oh, well, maybe they're right..." Later I am disgusted with myself.

Please give me some good arguments for saying "no." I am tired of losing the battle and hating myself in the morning. ---Easy Mary.

Dear Mary: Where did you get the idea that you owe those dudes reasons for hanging on to what belonged to you in the first place? Don't engage in any more debates. If the boys want to intellectualize, tell them you are not interested in sex as a contact sport and to get lost. (P.S. You were talked out of your maidengood only once, dear. You were talked out of something else the other 19 times.)

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widow, age 55. My father-in-law is in very poor health and the doctors say it is just a matter of days. "Pops," as we call him, told me three years ago at his son's funeral that I would share his estate equally with his two daughters.

I have always loved Pops, helped him with his letter-writing and mending, driven him wherever he wanted to go, and he was at my dinner table almost every night. He frequently told me his daughters are fine girls but their husbands had made it clear that they didn't want "the old man around too much."

Yesterday one of the girls said something about "the old man" being out of his mind and that he had mumbled some nonsense about his estate being divided three ways. She told me, "It won't hold up in court so don't count on it."

I am not hard up for money, Ann, but neither are they.

This morning the other daughter suggested that I sign a paper forfeiting my share "to save the expense and embarrassment of a court fight." I am shocked and upset. What do you advise? ---Still Reeling

Dear S.R.: The poor fellow isn't even dead yet and his daughters are already counting his money. My advice is: Say nothing. Do nothing. Sign nothing. Consult a lawyer if you run into trouble at probate time.

Dear Ann Landers: My 16-year-old cousin sent for your booklet called "Teen-Age Sex And Ten Ways To Cool It." She sent her 50 cents and the long, self-addressed, stamped envelope like it said at the foot of your column. When the booklet arrived, she read it right away and phoned me to say it was very good and gave her a lot to think about.

Well, Ann Landers, three months later she was pregnant and got married very fast. Her mother almost had a heart attack. What I want to know is why do you recommend booklets if they don't do any good? --- Highly Disappointed

Dear Highly: Sorry, but all I can do is state the facts in simple, forthright language. I can't guarantee that my booklets will keep anybody out of trouble. (Maybe your cousin was pregnant when she got the booklet?)

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex ---Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

GOOD DINNER

Ham Steak — Yams
Molded Relish — Bread Tray

MOLDED RELISH

Good way to use cabbage.

1 package (3 ounces) lemon-flavor gelatin
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white pepper
1 cup boiling water
3/4 cup cold water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1 1/2 cups finely chopped green cabbage

Stir together the gelatin, salt, pepper and boiling water until gelatin dissolves; stir in cold water and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in remaining ingredients. Ladle into six 1/2-cup molds or custard cups. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Makes 6 servings.

Christmas tour set for Dec. 9

Foster grandparents and their coordinator, Mrs. Jolene Walker, were guests of Sikeston Civic Club Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Tom Gleason, 311 Salcedo Road. Twenty- seven members and one guest were present. Mrs. Paul Heckemeyer, Mrs. Leon Garrett, Mrs. Harrison Tanner and Mrs. J. R. Harwell were hostesses.

Mrs. Mildred Canedy, club program director, introduced Mrs. Walker, who explained that the Foster Grandparent Program is used in the Sikeston and Poplar Bluff Regional Diagnostic Clinics.

Two foster grandmothers, Mrs. Ada Dement and Mrs. Gladys Waddell, also were present to give their views and experiences. They stressed mutual rewards to the children and grandparents participating.

Mrs. Margaret Cain reported on one of the club's projects — medical assistance given to needy school children.

Homes chosen for the Civic Club annual Christmas Tour were also announced, and included the homes of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hanks, 707 Mimosa; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kellett, 919 Davis Blvd.; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Forbis, 936 Moore Ave.; and Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Martin, 902 Moore Ave. The tour is scheduled on Dec. 9, and tickets will be available soon from Civic Club members.

We prepare John's Pizza with such fine, wholesome ingredients that we want to make sure you enjoy it at its freshest peak of perfection. That's why we clearly stamp a freshness date on every package.

After all, we use enriched spring wheat flour, Grade A San Joaquin Valley tomatoes, aged Wisconsin whole-milk cheese, carefully blended spices, and U.S. Government-inspected hamburger beef—or our own special sausage or tangy pepperoni—all under continuous inspection by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

What's the use of going to all that trouble, unless we make sure that it tastes pizza parlor-fresh?

So check the date on every package you buy, and we'll both be happy.

And to make you even happier, we're offering you a money-saving coupon. Take us up on it today!

Country music star slain

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music star David "Stringbean" Akeman and his wife had $5,700 in cash hidden on them when they were murdered in what was believed to be a burglary, a police source said today.

The bodies of Stringbean, a star of "Hee Haw" and the Grand Ole Opry whose sad face and funny wardrobe endeared him to country music fans, and his wife were found Sunday morning by L. M. "Grampa" Jones, a fellow country music star and a long-time friend.

The police source said a funeral home employe had found $3,500 in Stringbean's bib overalls and $2,200 in Mrs. Akeman's clothing.

The source said the money previously had been overlooked by investigators and apparently by the killers, who police believe were burglars surprised by Stringbean when he and his wife returned to their rural home following Saturday night's Opry.

"It looks as if Stringbean was shot after he opened the door," said detective Lt. Tom Cathey. "Mrs. Akeman was apparently shot as she tried to flee."

Jones, who drove to the Akeman home to join Stringbean on a hunting trip, said he found Mrs. Akeman's body lying beside a driveway. He said he found Stringbean's body lying face down on the floor of his house. Nearby in the doorway lay his banjo.

Police said the three-room house had been ransacked and some of Mrs. Akeman's personal effects were missing.

Friends had said earlier that Stringbean was well off financially and often carried large sums of cash.

Stringbean was known to country music fans for his unique stage costume, an overlong shirt sewn to short trousers midway between his waist and knees. His banjo, sad face, pinched eyebrows and tattered straw hat completed the ensemble.

Stringbean's music career started at the age of 13 when he and a friend made a banjo. He left his home in Anneville, Ky., when he was 18 to tour with Lew Childres.

He came to the Opry in 1942 with Bill Monroe. He later joined the television series "Hee Haw" but maintained his close ties with the Opry and appeared there frequently. His humor was droll and soft spoken, and he was often a straight man for other stars' jokes.

Police said they were looking for two or more persons but had made no arrests. They searched Stringbean's 143-acre farm, which includes a 10-room home in which the Akemans did not live, and used dogs to retrace the steps of the assailants.

Course on lagoon operations to be offered at Malden

NEOSHO — The Water and Wastewater Technical School at Neosho will conduct a one-week short course on lagoon operations Nov. 26-30 in the Malden area. The course, Lagoon Operation and Maintenance, is sponsored jointly by the Environmental Protection Agency, Missouri Clean Water Commission and the Water and Wastewater Technical School to provide training for lagoon operators.

Included in the course are laboratory testing, biology and chemistry of lagoon operation, math as applied to typical sizing, loading problems of sewage treatment and lagoon operations and report filing and record keeping. Student problem clinics and periods for local and student problems are also held each day.

The course will be free to operators in Missouri, particularly the Bootheel area due to the location of the course. The only cost to the participating student or city would be board and room and/or transportation to the course.

If interested, send name, address, telephone number, course title and name of sponsor or employer with address and position title to Short Course, Water and Wastewater Technical School, P. O. Box 370, Neosho, Mo. 64850, Attention: Mrs. Abby Crawford, as soon as possible, or phone (417) 451-2786.

Bowl talk increases

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of the nation's top college football teams aren't holding their collective breath waiting for an invitation when the bowl bids go out next Saturday.

The reason is that the pairings for the Sugar, Orange and Cotton Bowls already have been signed, sealed and delivered, even though the National Collegiate Athletic Association says the invitations can't be extended until 6 p.m. on the third Saturday in November, which is next Saturday.

The Rose Bowl, which matches the champions of the Big Ten and Pacific-8 Conferences, will learn who its participants are on Nov. 24 when Ohio State, No. 1 in The Associated Press ratings, visits fourth-ranked Michigan and No. 8 Southern California plays No. 9 UCLA.

As of now, the Sugar Bowl has the plum — a battle of unbeatens between second-ranked Alabama and No. 5 Notre Dame. The Orange Bowl, which annually opts for the highest ranking teams available, will have to settle — if that's the word — for a similar matchup of teams with perfect records, No. 6 Penn State against No. 7 Louisiana State. Alabama and LSU, however, must play each other Thanksgiving night.

Texas seems a shoo-in again as the Southwest Conference's representative in the Cotton Bowl against Nebraska. And Tennessee appears to have the inside track to the Gator Bowl with Missouri the likely foe.

That leaves such attractive teams as Texas Tech, Houston, North Carolina State, Kansas, Tulane and Auburn, among others. The Liberty Bowl is looking at all of those teams although Texas Tech could wind up in the Bluebonnet Bowl and the Fiesta Bowl is leaning toward Tulane or Houston as an opponent for the Western Athletic Conference champ, either Arizona State or Arizona.

Miami of Ohio, the MidAmerican titlist, is set for the Tangerine Bowl with the remaining berth there along with teams for the Peach and Tangerine Bowls to come from the aforementioned, and possibly Colorado, East Carolina, Maryland, Oklahoma State, Pitt, San Diego State and Tampa.

In weekend action, Ohio State blanked Michigan State 35-0 as Archie Griffin smashed Hopalong Cassady's one-season rushing record — he gained 131 for a total of 1,012 — and Bruce Elia scored three times.

Alabama was idle but thirdranked Oklahoma, ineligible for a bowl, trimmed No. 10 Missouri behind Joe Washington's 23-yard run and 80-yard punt return and a 63-yard pass play from Steve Davis to Billy Brooks.

Michigan downed Illinois 21-6 despite fumbling six times and losing four of them. The Wolverines trailed 6-0 before Ed Shuttlesworth, Gil Chapman and Paul Seal all ran for touchdowns.

Notre Dame withstood a 209yard performance by Tony Dorsett, most ever by a running back against the Irish, and knocked off No. 20 Pitt 31-10 as Wayne Bullock rushed for 167 yards and four scores. Pitt lost the ball seven times on fumbles and interceptions.

Penn State rallied to defeat North Carolina State 35-29 as John Cappelletti, who rushed for 220 yards and three touchdowns, scored the tie-breaker on a 27-yard gallop with 8½ minutes left.

LSU also had the weekend off while Southern Cal, down 23-10 after three periods, rallied to nip Stanford 27-26 on Chris Limahelu's 34-yard field goal with three seconds left. Rod Garcia kicked four for the losers, including boots of 59 and 52 yards. Mark Harmon tallied twice and Kermit Johnson ran for 146 yards in UCLA's 27-7 triumph over Oregon.

Dave Humm scored a firstperiod touchdown and passed for another 51 seconds later as No. 11 Nebraska beat Iowa State 31-7. Two touchdowns by Larry Isaac and Joe Barnes' scoring pass to Andre Tillman helped No. 12 Texas Tech come from behind and defeat Texas Christian 24-10.

Roosevelt Leaks barreled for three touchdowns, leading No. 13 Texas to a 42-6 rout of Baylor. Arizona State, No. 14, got two touchdowns apiece from Woody Green, Ben Malone and Fred Williams and crushed Wyoming 47-0.

Leonard Parker rushed for 200 yards and two scores as No. 15 Houston shaded Colorado State 28-20. No. 16 Tennessee didn't play but No. 17 Miami nailed down the MAC crown with a 20-10 triumph over No. 19 Kent State behind Chuck Varner's two touchdowns. No. 18 Kansas halted a Colorado rally by recovering a fumble on its own 24-yard line with 21 seconds left to beat the Buffs 17-15.

East Carolina clinched its second consecutive Southern Conference crown by whomping Richmond 44-14. Arizona held onto its 1½-game lead over Arizona State and Utah in the WAC with a 24-10 triumph over Brigham Young.

Dartmouth beat Columbia 246 and Harvard defeated Princeton 19-14 to remain deadlocked for the Ivy League lead.

Syracuse finally notched its first win, 5-3 over Holy Cross on a fourth-period safety. But Army, Florida State, Iowa and Long Beach State all remained winless.

And New Mexico State became the first major team to end its season. The Aggies finished 5-6 after losing to Utah State 40-12.

2 Cards honored

ST. LOUIS (AP)— St. Louis baseball writers have selected catcher Ted Simmons and left fielder Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals for repeat honors as the chapter's baseball men of the year.

Simmons, who hit .310 and totalted 91 runs batted in, and Brock, who topped the major leagues with 70 base thefts, will be honored during the 17th St. Louis Baseball Writers Association of America dinner Jan. 21.

Vikings extend streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In 1969, running backs Bill Brown and Dave Osborn helped the Minnesota Vikings get to the Super Bowl.

On Sunday the veteran duo boosted the Vikings a step closer toward returning to that championship confrontation when they ran 101 yards and 79 yards respectively to lead Minnesota to a 28-7 victory over Detroit in the National Football League.

The decision gave Minnesota at least a tie for the National Conference Central Division title.

"Heck," said the 35-year-old Brown, who along with Osborn had been the object of preseason suggestions that he be phased out, "I don't remember the last time I've had a 100yard day. It's been a couple of years at least. I can't even remember the last time I carried 18 times in a game."

Brown's touchdown helped give the Vikings their 14th straight victory and a triumph in any of their remaining five games, or a loss by either Chicago or Green Bay will clinch the division title for Minnesota.

In other NFL Sunday action, Pittsburgh beat Oakland 17-9, Miami walloped Baltimore 44-0, Cincinnati tripped Buffalo 16-13, Washington beat San Francisco 33-9, Los Angeles whipped New Orleans 29-7, Atlanta defeated Philadelphia 44-7, Cleveland dumped Houston 23-13, Green Bay beat St. Louis 25-21, and Denver defeated San Diego 3019.

Kansas City hosts the Chicago Bears in a nationally televised game tonight.

Steelers 17, Raiders 9

For Pittsburgh, the best offense was a great defense, led by Dwight White. The 24-yearold defensive end intercepted two passes and set up a touchdown to pace the Steelers to their 17-9 victory.

"They can outrush us and outpass us all the time as long as we outscore them," said Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll, whose team was outrushed 195395 and had only eight first downs to Oakland's 26.

Dolphins 44, Baltimore 0

Miami had a modest hero in its 44-0 trouncing of Baltimore. Despite the two touchdown he scored on runbacks of blocked punts, cornerback Tim Foley insisted "it's no big thing."

Mercury Morris also starred for the Dolphins, scoring on runs of 48 and 53 yards.

Bengals 16, Bills 13

"People always remember the bad things that happen and never the good," said soccerstyle kicker Horst Muhlmann after making himself hard to forget by kicking a field goal with three seconds remaining to give Cincinnati a 16-13 victory over Buffalo.

Muhlmann's three field goals broke a tie brought on by O.J. Simpson's 32-yard third-quarter touchdown. Simpson picked up 99 yards on 20 carries to raise his nine-game total to 1,203.

Redskins 33, 49ers 9

Sonny Jurgensen and Billy Kilmer, the ailing Washington quarterbacking duet, provided the one-two punch which brought the Redskins out a twogame losing streak with a 33-9 victory.

Jurgensen tossed an 18-yard touchdown in relief of Kilmer, who later returned to fire two scoring strikes of his own.

Rams 29, Saints 7

The Saints came back down to earth after winning two straight games as Lawrence McCutcheon scored once and figured in four other scores to help Los Angeles win 29-7.

The NFC West leaders held the Saints in check except for a 65-yard touchdown pass from Archie Manning to Jubilee Dunbar, the only completion for the New Orleans' quarterback in the first half.

Falcons 44, Eagles 27

Atlanta remained in contention in the NFC West with its 44-27 victory over the Eagles, who at one point had tied the game 20-20.

Then Atlanta punter John James angled a 46-yarder outof-bounds on the Philadelphia one and after the Falcon defense held, Atlanta took over on the Eagle 43. It took Atlanta only eight plays to score the goahead touchdown and clinch their fifth straight victory.

Browns 23, Oilers 13

During what Cleveland Coach Nick Skorich called "probably our best quarter of the season", the Browns scored 17 points in the first quarter to defeat Houston 23-13. Despite their 195 total yards in that first period, the Browns quickly bogged down, gaining only 18 total yards in the second and 15 in the third.

Broncos 30, Chargers 19

The Broncos rallied behind veteran Charley Johnson to defeat San Diego 30-19 and spoil the coaching debut of new Charger Coach Ron Waller.

Packers 25, Cardinals 21

Green Bay held off a fourthquarter comeback led by quarterback Jim Hart to defeat St. Louis 25-21. The Packers had compiled a 22-7 halftime lead before Hart threw a 23-yard fourth-quarter touchdown pass and then directed a 58-yard march for another score.

Cowboys 23, Giants 10

Jets 33, Patriots 13

With Joe Namath still on the sidelines, and with Al Woodall getting re-injured, the Jets were still able to defeat New England 33-13 with the help of John Riggins and Emerson Boozer.

SEMO No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southeast Missouri moved into the lead in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football race by clubbing Missouri-Rolla 33-8 while Northwest Missouri dropped a 24-19 decision to Southwest Missouri Saturday.

In other MIAA play, Lincoln University blanked Northeast Missouri 21-0. Central Missouri battered Missouri Southern 4419 outside the league.

William Jewell locked up the Heart of America Conference crown by edging Graceland 9-7 on Steve Butler's late field goal. Missouri Valley took second place in the HOA with a 70-10 assault of College of Emporia. Central Methodist grabbed third by downing Tarkio 34-13.

Quarterback Lance Brune scored three touchdowns and fullback Rick Attig added two more to thrust Southeast to the top in the MIAA with a 4-1 record. Missouri-Rolla is 1-3 in the league.

Kent Stringer passed for one touchdown and ran for another as Southwest put a dent in Northwest's title hopes. Northwest now is 4-2 while Southwest is 2-3.

Lincoln, 3-1, moved into second place in the MIAA as Cornelius President threw two touchdown passes to Johnny McDaniels. One was a 73-yard bomb; the other was a 14-yard play. Northeast Missouri dropped to 2-3.

Andrew Hudson and Ray Miller each scored two TDs to spark Central Missouri, 1-4 in the MIAA and 2-7 over-all. Missouri Southern, 4-5, the only independent in the state to see action, had a ray of hope as sophomore Steve Hamilton passed for two touchdowns and 364 yards.

William Jewell, which finished regular season play undefeated in 10 games, plays St. Mary of the Plains, Kansas Conference representative, in the Mineral Water Bowl at Excelsior Springs, Mo., Saturday.

Bill Lankford scored twice on runs of one and four yards and booted two field goals to ignite Central Methodist, 5-2. Tarkio ended with a 4-3 mark.

Next Saturday the MIAA chase continues as Southeast Missouri travels to Central Missouri, Southwest Missouri goes to Lincoln and Northeast Missouri is at Missouri-Rolla. The final MIAA game is Thanksgiving Day when Missouri-Rolla goes to Lincoln.

Two independents wind up their seasons Saturday at home. Arkansas Tech is at Missouri Southern and Washington and Lee will be in St. Louis to play Washington University.

Sooners romp

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Coach Barry Switzer of Oklahoma, whose third-ranked Sooners are only two victories away from winning the Big Eight Conference football championship, said today Saturday's test with the Kansas Jayhawks "will be a heart attack game."

Switzer put his finger on Dave Jaynes, the Jayhawk quarterback who leads the league in passing, as the player the Sooners fear most in the forthcoming battle at Norman, Okla.

"I haaven't seen that many films of Jaynes," Switzer continued, "but I know he is a great passer. Anytime you have somebody that good standing back there and throwing as many times as he's going to throw, it's bound to be a stopper."

Switzer had no real cause for concern last Saturday when the Sooners knocked off 10th-ranked Missouri with long plays 31-3 and wasn't surprised when he heard that 18th-rated Kansas had edged Colorado 17-15.

"I'm never surprised at anything that happens in the Big Eight," Switzer said.

In other games last weekend, 11th-ranked Nebraska, like Kansas, remained in the thick of the race and postseason bowl contention with a 31-7 victory over Iowa State, and Oklahoma State brushed aside Kansas State 28-9.

The Oklahoma-Kansas game will highlight Saturday's 10th week of the fading campaign. Nebraska goes to Kansas State, Missouri to Iowa State and Oklahoma State to Colorado in the other matches.

Kansas' big problems will be to contain the Sooners' Joe Washington and Waymon Clark. Washington, with Oklahoma ahead of Missouri only 10-3 late in the third quarter, ran 26 yards for a touchdown and later added another on an 80-yard punt return. Clark, who rushed 26 times for 153 yards, scored the first TD on a 14-yard run.

Oklahoma is 4-0 in the league and 7-0-1 over-all. Missouri's loss, its second in five conference games, has a record of 7-2 against all opposition.

"It was the great play of our defense that won for us," concluded Switzer. "Without question, Lucious Selmon is the greatest defensive lineman in the country ... the best we've ever had ... a definite Heisman Trophy candidate."

'The way Oklahoma played I would say they're the best in the country," said Al Onofrio, the Missouri coach.

The Jayhawks 6-2-1 and 3-1-1, had to come up with a fumble recovery by Rick Mudge to save the game with Colorado, 5-4 and 2-3. Mudge fell on freshman Billy Waddy's fumble on the Kansas 24-yard line with only 21 seconds left.

Jaynes connected on 11 of 26 passes for 170 yards and made one touchdown on a four-yard run.

The triumph touched off a wave of bowl fever among the Jayhawks. Coach Dan Fambrough said, "We're sure available if they want us." Jaynes said, "Any bowl as long as it's in the South."

"We didn't get the last break," moaned Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder. 'That's football."

Nebraska, 7-1-1 and 3-1-1, made two touchdowns during a 51-second span of the first quarter against Iowa State, 2-6 and 0-5. Dave Humm made one on a one-yard run and passed 25 yards to Rich Bahe for the other. Cyclone fumbles set up both scores. Humm's 67-yard pass to Frosty Anderson accounted for a third touchdown.

The Huskers, who seem to have found themselves after a loss to Missour and a tie with Oklahoma State, combined passing and running for 409 yards.

Oklahoma State also kept its long-shot bowl hopes alive with its decision over Kansas State, 4-4 and 1-4 and in danger of having its third straight losing season. The Cowboys 4-2-2 and 1-1-2 held Isaac Jackson, the league's top rusher going into the game, to only 31 yards.

After K-State had pulled up to 14-9 with 13 minutes, 16 seconds remaining, Alton Gerard scored his second one-run touchdown for the Cowboys to end an 80-yard sustained drive.

"We definitely got beat up front," said K-State Coach Vince Gibson. "The difference in the game was that OSU was just physically stronger. They can be in the game with anybody with that defense because it's never going to give up too many points."

What's the law?

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Harry was a cautious taxi driver. While people usually lost all kinds of things in his cab, one thing he had no intention of losing in it was his life. Consequently, as a matter of prudence, during the evening hours he insisted that passengers sit next to him in the front seat where he could keep a wary eye on them. That way, he figured, he could reduce the chances of his being mugged.

As it turned out, instead of being mugged, Harry was reported. A would- be passenger refused to sit in the front seat with him, Harry refused to take him where he wanted to go and the would- be passenger indignantly filed a complaint against the prudent cabbie with the result that Harry's hack license was suspended.

"You've got some nerve," he was told. "You can't compel people to sit up front with you. You're a cab driver, not a companion."

"While I might not be a companion," retorted Harry, "I don't want to be a corpse, either. Consequently, requiring passengers to sit up front with me after dark, considering the dangerous times we're living in was perfectly reasonable."

Intent upon getting back his license, Harry protested the suspension in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give prudent Harry back his license?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a license to drive a taxi cab cannot be suspended for just any reason. It may be suspended for only reasons allowed by law. And, concluded the judge. Harry's requiring passengers to sit in the front seat, considering the circumstances and his motives, was not one of the reasons that would justify suspending his license.

B. C. cartoonist to have Thanksgiving special

NEW YORK (AP)— Johnny Hart, as a goodly number of kids, college students and general citizens know, draws the "B. C." comic strip, which is sort of a hipsters" "Flintstones."

Come Nov. 19, he'll have his first full- length cartoon feature on television, a half-hour effort on NBC called "B. C., The First Thanksgiving."

Most of it concerns a turkey who is uneasy at the idea of being dined on. Hart approaches interviews about the show approximately the same way the turkey contemplates the ax.

"I'm trying to get into the Guiness Book of Records as the worst interview of all time," he unhappily explained. Then he started laughing. "So you might as well prepare yourself."

Hart, a 41- year- old native of Endicott, N. Y., isn't a hostile witness. It's just that, well, a guy who draws ants that talk and anteaters that go "Zot!" as they dine is apt to be a bit strange upstairs.

In his defense, we'd point out that he's a great fan of the old "Roadrunner" cartoons, breaks up at the mention of Dudley Do- Right of the Royal Mounted Police and considers jazz trumpeter Jack Sheldon, a regular on the Merv Griffin show, one of the most naturally funny men of all time.

Hart, in short, is a normal cartoonist. His "B. C." strip has been nationally syndicated for nearly 13 years, but he's been a professional cartoonist since he was 19.

"I guess originally it was the only thing that I knew how to do," he said. "I started out just working nights and studying other people's drawings, then trying some of my own."

He continued drawing, even during a Korean war stint with the Air Force, but despite som success in magazines he didn't really hit until he happened to see Charles Schulz' "Peanuts" strip.

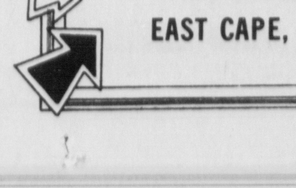
That prompted "B. C." and the rest is history. Now he wants to do more animated cartoons for television, but only on an irregular basis while continuing his strip.

"I don't like the idea of doing it for television every week, because you have to take so much away from it," he said, referring to time considerations that force reduction in cartoon detail.

"I'm of the old school. I like the full animation, like in the old days with the Warner Brothers stuff.

"But that's what I'd like to do," he said. "I think I have a talent for that. I think I have a good feel for sound, which you can't get on a page. I drive myself crazy trying to do it on a piece of paper, but, jeez, it's difficult."

Unlike many successful cartoonists, Hart still draws his own strip, seven days a week, 365 days a year.



Colonial inns had their patrons sleep up to five in a bed.

Subcommittee reports SBA lending abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Potentially criminal abuses in the Small Business Administration's lending operations have been reported by a House Banking subcommittee.

A member of the subcommittee told The Associated Press the allegations include the possible influence of organized crime on SBA loan activities and the discovery of millions of dollars in bad debts.

The subcommittee on Small Business turned its evidence over to the Justice Department last week and has summoned the SBA's top auditor, Frank Nicholas, to appear before it Wednesday.

It also recommended, in effect, that Congress stop the SBA from making more loans until criminal investigations are completed.

In a letter to Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, subcommittee chairman Robert Stephens said his group had "uncovered some serious problems in the administration of SBA offices and their loan and guarantee programs. Some of the problems are so severe that criminal prosecution may be in order."

Because of this, Stephens said, "it would be unwise for Congress to grant the agency more than $2 billion of new loan authority until the problems are corrected and criminal investigations are concluded."

Stephens asked Patman for the full committee's concurrence in the subcommittee's action last Thursday, to table a pending Senate-passed bill which would raise the SBA lending ceiling to $6.6 billion.

The SBA was created to help small businessmen who can't get credit through traditional channels. It can lend only up to its statutory ceiling, currently $4.3 billion, and then is precluded from further activity until outstanding loans are repaid.

Stephens noted that the SBA is expected to exhaust its supply of loan money by late November.

The SBA's top auditor, Nicholas, director of the Office of Portfolio Review, has been called to appear before to a closed-door hearing Wednesday. And Stephens said SBA Administrator Thomas Kleppe, a former Republican congressman from North Dakota, would be called later.

Kleppe did not return a reporter's calls seeking his comment on the subcommittee's announcement.

The subcommittee sources, who asked not to be identified, said the apparent subversion of SBA practices was "shockingly pervasive."

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

All of us hear them (the apostles) speaking in our own languages of the great things that God has done! (Acts 2:11) PRAYER: Eternal, universal Father, Thou hast made all Thy children of one spirit. Help us in our seeking that we may find and become Thy witnesses. In the name of Christ, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven...Amen."

Hayti Heights will be one-year-old Dec. 28

HAYTI HEIGHTS— On Dec. 28 the city of Hayti Heights will be 1- year- old.

A lot has happened since the Pemiscot County Court last year declared that the all-black town was officially a fourth- class Missouri city.

For example:

The town now has its own city hall, formerly a realtor's two- room office. It is being enlarged.

Hayti Heights has become the second city in the Missouri Bootheel to hire a city administrator, made possible through a $17,000 grant from the state's Department of Community Affairs.

The city has been cleaned up, the result of a 10- week summer program that hired 84 youngsters, one of the state's largest Neighborhood Youth Corps— Emergency Employment Act Programs.

A town marshal has been hired. He drives his own car, but his salary is paid and equipment furnished through a Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant.

Garbage collections have been started, at a cost of $1.50 per household per month. The Army surplus truck used as a garbage truck was obtained through Lincoln University.

A little yellow van has been obtained through OEO channels and will be used to ferry elderly persons to the shopping and medical centers in nearby Hayti.

The first tax statements— a shock to some Heights residents— have been mailed and a tiny bit of locally generated income is trickling in.

Revenue sharing funds, income from the sale of a $4 city auto sticker and receipts from state gasoline tax refunds are being received.

Street lights, bought with funds from a 5 per cent franchise tax paid by Arkansas- Missouri Power Co., have been erected. A city limits sign is up and street and traffic control signs are in place.

To cap it all off, this summer Gov. Christopher S. 'Kit' Bond came to town.

The city has come a long way since the Hayti Heights Development Corporation members first met in a little rundown church and conceived incorporating, Mayor David Humes said.

"We have made great strides," he said, "but we still have so much to do."

Streets still are narrow and not paved.

Ninety per cent of the homes still do not have inside toilets.

Most homes do not have city water.

In many instances there still are three and four families sharing an outdoor water hydrant.

The average family income still is less than $2,500 a year.

The average education of Heights residents still is less than the seventh grade.

And property taxes are so low, that the city still has virtually no tax base.

But if anyone in the city administration is discouraged, it doesn't show.

Least of all on Mayor Humes. He sets the lead by putting in an average work week of about 90 hours, city administrator Thomas Dees said.

"And at a monthly salary of $250," Dees said. "I would say the city is getting a bargain."

Humes' major function is trying to find money for city improvements.

Within two months, he said, the city expects approval of a $300,000 Economic Development Administration grant that will allow it to tap Hayti's water lines and extend city water to most Heights' homes.

It may be possible, he said, for low interest government loans to be made to qualified householders who cannot afford to pay to have water connected to their homes.

Two immediate goals, he said, are to find funds for building a sanitary sewer system and improving city streets.

While the search for funds goes on, Dees, along with several Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) workers, is laboring to firm up the city's administrative procedures.

One of the first tasks, Dees said, is to revamp the city's $63,000 budget adopted earlier this year based on "anticipated" sources of income.

A city code is being drawn up— for free— by the county's prosecuting attorney, Arthur Stephenson, and soon will be adopted by the City Council.

VISTA worker Noel Ditmars, originally from Ames, Iowa, drew the city's base map, which was used to set up the town's tax books and to launch engineering studies for planned improvements.

What Humes calls "long-long- range plans" include industrial development.

"Our location is good," he said. "We are close to a railroad and Interstate 55. The river is not far from here. And, we understand that Missouri 84 one day will be rerouted to bypass the city of Hayti.

"When that happens it will open up another front for us."

He and Dees agreed that "industrial development may well determine whether Hayti Heights perpetuates itself as a city."

Much speculation over Kissinger-Chou En-lai talks

PEKING (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met today with Premier Chou En-lai for the third time in three days amid much speculation but no concrete information about their talks.

There was conjecture that the two were arranging a visit by Chou to the United States or arrangements for closer official relations than the liaison offices they presently maintain in each other's capital.

U.S. officials with Kissinger have not disclosed any details of the secretary's conversations since he arrived Saturday after his Middle East peace mission. But they said it was unlikely that the visit, Kissinger's sixth to China, would produce an agreement to open full diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking.

Kissinger goes to Tokyo on Tuesday.

Speculation that closer ties are the chief topic in Kissinger's talks was fueled by a banquet toast he made Saturday night: "We are determined to do much to complete the process we started two years ago as rapidly as possible."

The first meeting between Kissinger and Chou was held Saturday night after a lavish welcoming banquet. They met again for 3½ hours Sunday and later that day went to a ballet about the Chinese revolution.

Kissinger went sightseeing today with Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua. Strolling through the 15th century Temple of Heaven in southern Peking, Chiao noted it was his first visit there in 25 years.

"I'm going to explain it to him," quipped Kissinger, who had been there in October 1971.

Radar system nets speeders

EAST PRAIRIE — The city's new radar system caught nine speeders over the weekend. Speeding fines assessed by Police Judge Sidney Drummond today included: Clyde Riley of Wright City Route Two, $15; Ray Lynn Dorris of Cape Girardeau, $15; Joyce Simpkins of East Prairie Route One, $15; William F. Garner of East Prairie, $25; Larry Busby of East Prairie Route Two, $10; Sheila Skaggs of East Prairie Route One, $10; Jessie Patrick of East Prairie Route Two, $10; Patricia Faire of East Prairie, $10; and Robert E. Wheatley of East Prairie, $10.

Jap Matthews of East Prairie, arrested for public intoxication for the second time in five days, was fined $50. Frank Roberts of East Prairie and Buck Stacey of Anniston, also arrested on charges of public intoxication, were each assessed $20 fines.

Policemen extend training session

Sgt. Anderson Walker Jr. and Cpl. Jessie Reed attended a three-day training session on burglary last week at University of Missouri - Columbia according to Police Chief Leon Culp.

Culp said the training was in line with the Sikeston Police Department's policy on keeping abreast of new techniques in crime fighting.

In addition, officers Richard Couch, Brad Wilson and Carless Jones attended an advanced computer terminal school conducted recently by the highway patrol at Jefferson City.

Culp said the computer is a vital link in the communications system and the training will enable the police department to keep up to date on this important section of the department.

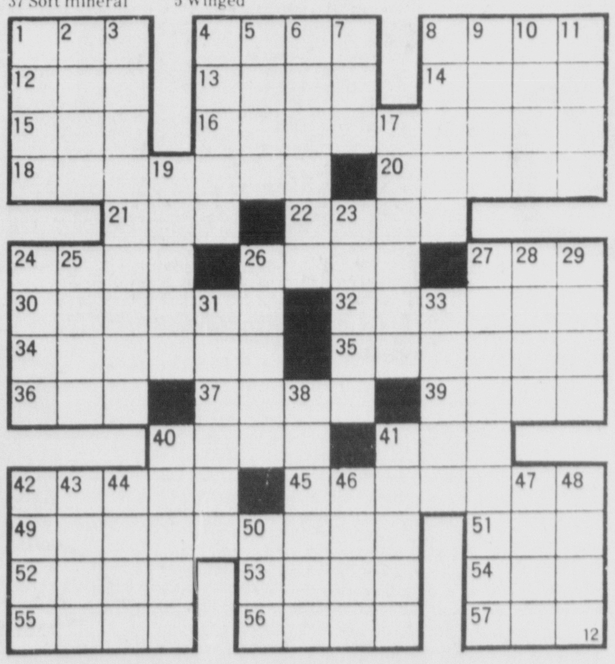
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Nov. 12, the 316th day of 1973. There are 49 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, during World War II, the Soviets halted German invaders at the outskirts of Moscow.

On this date —

In 1812, Napoleon Bonaparte's army reached the Russian city of Smolensky in its retreat from Moscow.

In 1866, the founder of the Chinese republic, Dr. Sun YatSen, was born near Macao.

In 1927, Joseph Stalin became the dictator of the Soviet Union as Leon Trotsky was expelled from the Communist party.

In 1937, the Japanese captured and occupied Shanghai.

Thought for today: Enough is enough, and too much spoils — Italian proverb.

Deaths

LOUELLA BRIDGES

MORLEY-- Mrs. Louella Bridges, 83, died at 10:45 p.m. Saturday at Chaffee General Hospital where she had been admitted earlier in the day.

She was born June 11, 1890 in Pike City, Ark.

On July 31, 1906, she married Ramsey Finney of Pike City, who died in 1946. In 1950, she married Thomas H. Bridges of Morley, who died in 1966. One son, Lawrence Finney, also preceded her in death.

She was a member of the Jesus Name Pentecostal Church at Bell City.

Surviving are three sons, Jessie, Clyde and Arthur Fay Finney of St. Louis; four daughters, Mrs. Allie Burnett and Mrs. Thelma Heffington of Morley, Mrs. Ola Diggs of Delta and Mrs. Janie Turner of Cahokia, Ill.; and 35 grandchildren, 64 great-grandchildren and eight great-great- grandchildren.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today in the Jesus Name Pentecostal Church at Bell City by the Revs. R. W. Carrow, pastor, and Don Russell of Morley.

Burial was in the new Morley Cemetery with Amick-Burnett Funeral Home of Oran in charge of arrangements.

A. J. GROVES

BERTRAND--- A. J. Groves, 42, a farmer, died at 11 p.m. Saturday at his home following an illness of three weeks.

He was born Feb. 15, 1931 in Bertrand, where he had lived his entire life. He was a member of the General Baptist Church at Charleston. On Oct. 5, 1958, he married Kathleen George, who survives.

Other survivors include his father, Arnold Groves of Bertrand; two sons, Bruce and Jeffrey Allen Groves of the home; two daughters, Janet Elaine and Martha Ann Groves of the home; one stepdaughter, Karen Jo White of San Francisco, Calif.; three brothers, Roger and Lowell Groves of St. Louis and Thomas Groves, stationed in Germany in the Army; and one sister, Mrs. Jessie Garrett of St. Louis.

The body is at McMikle Funeral Home in Charleston where arrangements are incomplete.

WILBURN A. MICHAEL

MALDEN-- Wilburn Alvera Michael 74, died Saturday at her home.

She was born Aug. 13, 1899 at Clinton, Ky.

She was a member of First United Methodist Church.

On Nov. 4, 1917, she married Lonnie Michael, who survives.

Nine wills come before Probate

BENTON — Nine wills came up for probate before Judge John H. Sides in Scott County Probate Court for the week ending Nov. 8.

Lela D. Lair, deceased: order of partial distribution.

The court ordered Frabk D. Lair, executor of the estate, to make partial distribution in estate by distributing to Emily Ruth Lair Pyle the sum of $1,000, to Margaret Ann Lair, $1,000, to Lorene Lair, $1,000, and Wesley Rowe Lair, $2,000 in full payment of the bequests to each person in the codicil of the last will and testament of the testatrix and instructed the executor to take credit therefore in settlement hereinafter filed.

Terri Dawn Holder, minor: appointment of guardians.

Jack C. Holder and Carol Joyce Holder presented their application as guardians of the person of estate who is now 15 years of age and ordered before entering upon the duties of office to enter into a good and sufficient bond to the State of Missouri in the sum of $7,000 conditioned to law. Bond was examined, approved, ordered filed and recorded, and letters of guardianship were ordered issued to them.

Ernest Lever Hughes, deceased: finding and order discharging administrator.

Elphart Hughes, administrator of estate, filed final settlement of estate which was approved by the order of the court on Oct. 8, 1973. The administrator filed final receipt of estate showing distribution that he has made to persons of the amount due them in accordance with the order of distribution. The court ordered that administrator and his sureties are hereby discharged and released.

Izora Lawrence, deceased: proof of publication of notice of granting letters testamentary filed.

Proof of publication of notice in The Jimplicute, a weekly newspaper, was presented showing dates of publication as Oct. 11, 18 and 25 and Nov. 1, 1973 and was examined and ordered filed.

Harry C. Blanton, deceased: semi- Annual settlement.

Henry Jospeh Blanton and James Patrick Tlapek, executors of the estate, presented their account and vouchers for semi- annual settlement, wherein they charged themselves the sum of $139,227.53 and asked credit for disbursements in the sum of $21,447.45, leaving a balance due of $117,780.08. Settlement was examined, approved, ordered filed and recorded.

Harry C. Blanton, deceased: order allowing partial payment of attorney's fees.

The court ordered that Lewis M. Blanton be paid the sum of $4,000 out of the assets of the estate as a partial fee for his services as attorney and the executors take credit therefore on their next settlement.

Harry C. Blanton, deceased: order allowing payment of partial executor's fee.

The court ordered that Henry Joseph Cyllen Blanton and James Patrick Tlapek be paid $4,000 each out of the assets of the estate as partial executors' fee for their service and that executors be given credit on their next settlement.

Rebecca Anita Dockins, minor: order.

Co- guardian Evelyn Dockins petitioned for authority to spend the sum of $100 for necessities of minor and the court after being sufficiently advised found the expenditure consistent with ward's best interest. The court directed the co- guardian to expend the sum for said ward and take credit therefore on the settlement.

Max A. Dodd: deceased: Order refusing letters of administrator.

The court ordered that Bobbie Iolene Dodd, surviving spouse of the deceased, shall not be granted the letters of estate unless, on the application presented of creditors or other parties interested, the existence of other or further property is shown.

IT NEVER RAINS IN LOS ANGELES
by Charles Flowers
224 pp.)

A white high school teacher is determined to find the killer of one of his best students, a black radical leader, in Charles Flowers' novel IT NEVER RAINS IN LOS ANGELES, now in paperback from Avon.

The search pits the young teacher against the Los Angeles police and two militant black groups, all of whom are anxious to find the killer, but for different reasons. The path leads through the ghettos of Los Angeles' Watts district and examines the internecine warfare between factions of the black revolution.

IT NEVER RAINS IN LOS ANGELES won the Thomas R. Coward prize and was hailed by The New York Times as "a brilliant tour de force."

Letters to the editor

MY FLAG

My flag has no walls or curtain around it.

My flag has a past seasoned with courage and strength, unyielding loyalty and true patriotism.

My flag stands proudly at home, in houses of worship, of all faiths, of all peoples, of all colors and creeds, in this rich land of ours.

My flag stands for the true meaning of freedom . . . the right to enhance, to improve, to respect, to build, to worship, to share.

My flag never guaranteed an easy life or the right to slander, to destroy, to break the law.

My flag wears its colors with dignity and pride, with the hope that all the people of this Nation will remember its magnificent heritage, and remain through difficult times, united for truth and right.

My flag was sewn together with Brotherly Love, determination and gratitude, with love for God and man.

My flag used to receive the Pledge of Allegiance by the children in public schools. The pledge was to a symbol that stood for fifty different states, different peoples, with different problems . . . but all united in one desire. The desire to be one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The Lucy Jefferson Lewis Chapter of Daughters of American Revolution and JAC clubs asks you to observe Veterans Day, November 11, by flying your flag.

Dear Editor:

It is reported that a plan is afoot to eliminate the Justice Department's list of 300 subversive organizations.

It is said that the Department of Justice claims the list is worthless. Far from being "worthless" however, the Attorney General's List of Subversive Organizations has been (and still is) extremely important and useful to security evaluators. Elimination of this list would deprive security officers of the use of important criteria necessary for proper security evaluations and background checks.

Let's not be naive and stupid!

Sincerely,
C. C. Moseley, President

U.S. FORCES, Germany (AHTNC) — Army Private First Class Jerry L. Hicks, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hicks, Route 1, Portageville, Mo., participated with other American and allied troops in exercise Reforger V in Germany, Oct. 10-16.

The military airlift command flew approximately 11,000 U. S.- based soldiers and more than 1,000 tons of equipment to three different airfields in Germany in preparation for the event.

Immediately after arriving overseas, the redeployed units drew combat gear and vehicles from prepositioned storage sites in Germany and moved to the exercise area to begin the seven- day field maneuver.

Pitted against the airlifted forces were Europe- based elements of NATO forces of the U.S., Germany and Canada.

The exercise, conducted by the joint chiefs of staff and NATO, focused on the procedures and techniques for receiving, equipping, assembling and employing units after they arrive, rather than on rapid deployment of troops from the U.S.

Pvt. Hicks is regularly assigned as a driver in Headquarters Company, 3rd Infantry Division in Wurzburg.

U. S. FORCES, Germany--Army First Lieutenant Harlan M. Heffelfinger, son of Mrs. Audrey M. Heffelfinger of 106 Kennedy Drive, Sikeston, Mo., participated Oct. 10- 16 with other American and allied troops in Exercise Reforger V in Germany.

LEARN KARATE, GO OUT FOR CULTURE

NEW YORK (AP) — Senior citizens are learning karate at a center in Forest Hills for men and women over 60 years. The federally funded center, which provides free hot meals, cultural and social programs, started offering karate instruction when officials realized that many older persons were afraid to leave their homes at night to participate in the program.

Coal production could increase in 8 months

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The coal industry could increase production within eight months at existing mines and also open new mines to help alleviate the nation's current energy crisis, William Hartman, vice president of Peabody Coal Co., said Friday.

That time, he said, would be needed to hire and train additional employes and obtain more mining equipment.

But Hartman said the industry will probably wait for Congress to pass enabling legislation before doing so. Peabody is one of the nation's largest coal producers and has extensive reserves in Illinois.

He noted that the President's energy message earlier this week will have to be clarified, especially the part suggesting that power plants and factories be exempted for one year from air and water quality laws.

If that means that high sulfer coal can be used for only that one-year period, Hartman said he doubted if coal production would be increased.

"A capital investment cannot be made in a coal mine, or in the expansion of an existing mine, if we cannot sell the product long enough to pay for the investment," he pointed out.

"Congress is the key here, and we will watch and see what they do," Hartman went on. "While the President made a policy statement, the real nuts and bolts are what Congress will permit us to do."

Bad Days at Black Computer

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Everybody wants computers. The Japanese are still protecting their infant industry against outsiders. The leaders of Eastern Europe feel out of it, mad with envy over our third and fourth generation marvels.

Maybe these folks can get their fever down a little if they hear how it goes with the computer in the United States. The thing may be clicking away merrily in various scientific centers, at the Social Security Administration, and a few other lucky places. But as it affects my household, and a lot of others I hear about, it's a frost.

Some charge-plate outfit based in Baltimore but handy for Washingtonians recently solicited us. A couple of times, efficient-sounding women called to inquire meticulously after basic information, all pretty simple stuff.

The results? Two credit card accounts instead of the one we asked for, each with my name misspelled in a different way. One actual credit card delivered, not to me but to my wife, for whom we did not seek one. The name on the card was misspelled, too. There were already billings to both accounts, although I was assured upon telephoning the company in Baltimore that that was impossible. One account was to the office address, which had been given only as backup information.

Bad Day at Black Computer was not over. Several weeks ago, with great fanfare in the nation's Amusement pages, the American Film Theater announced a series of limited showings (only twice a month) for a batch of special new movies with star-studded casts. That great master of computer operations, American Express, was to handle subscriptions and billings through its regular credit card system.

Soon after filling out the application blank with the advertisement, we got a nice form letter of thanks for the order, with word we'd hear again, and a code number for our "charter subscription account" which the theater firm said "is yours, alone."

Weeks passed, with no tickets coming. Finally I called the American Film Theater office in Washington, and learned that thousands upon thousands of tickets had gone astray — some for the Washington area to North Carolina.

I was given a New York City telephone number to call collect, and it was explained New York would send a telegram in lieu of tickets for the first movie, since it was otherwise too late to correct the error.

In about 10 tries, the New York number was always busy, as you can imagine. When it at last rang, I got a recorded announcement saying "all lines are busy, please call back later." Later would be after the movie.

I resisted the impulse to call the president of American Express, to whom I once sent a hot-collared telegram which brought instant action. This time I chose the good old public relations department, which promised to break through the log jam of busy signals and get me my tickets. At this moment, I'm waiting.

Just so you don't think the old-fashioned, noncomputerized world is moving altogether smoothly, this week we got eight pieces of misdirected mail. And, in response to her order, my wife got a refrigerator ice-tray holder which doesn't fit the one ice-tray they sent rather than the three asked for.

The people who pulled these bloopers are probably on the escalator and will soon be feeding computers misinformation. Still interested, you folks out there in Tokyo, Warsaw, Prague, Budapest?

Governor's limousine to be auctioned

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The governor's limousine, which cost more than $11,000 when it was purchased in 1969, will be sold Nov. 17 in a public auction, the governor's office announced Friday.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond has used a leased car, a Lincoln, or his own car, a Buick, while the state owned Cadillac sat in the capitol basement.

A governor's spokesman said that by the time the governor's term is over in 1976, the car would be seven years old and the trade-in value would be less. There are no plans to replace the Cadillac, a governor's spokesman said.

Other items to be auctioned are 50 state vehciles, 75 highbacked oak rocking chairs, 100 milk cans, a walking plow, oak buffet, old-fashioned washboards, cameras and office furniture.

The sale will be at 10 a.m. just east of the state prison in Jefferson City.

Seals show 12 days of Christmas

Children don't come cheaper by the dozen anymore. Not with today's costs. Neither do Christmas Seals. But this year they do come in twelves.

The Seals show the twelve days of Christmas, from the partridge in a pear tree to the twelve drummers drumming. The fun of the song has always been trying to remember the long list of "gifts" that "my true love sent to me." At midwinter festivals in jolly old England, the lyrics were not only a test of memory but also a measure of spirits imbibed.

Nobody knows how old the rollicking folksong is or who wrote it. But it is a carol of great charm and antiquity, a song of wandering minstrels and Christmas fairs. During one period, the song was relegated to the nursery as a forfeit game. Each child had to give up something when the lyrics were forgotten. At another time, the song was accompanied by dancing and asking alms for those in need.

The song honors the twelve days from December 25 to Epiphany, January 6, the day the Three Wise Kings arrived from the East to visit the Christ Child. Christmas Seals continue the tradition of giving. Contributions support today's fight against lung disease.

In contrast to the carol, the origins of this year's Christmas Seals are well known. They were designed by twenty-three year old Cheri Johnson who says her creations were the personal expression of her love for the holiday season. She hopes others, she says, "will react to the Seals in another personal way -- with a generous contribution."

Today's fight for clean air and healthy lungs is everyone's problem. As you live and breathe, give more to Christmas Seals. They fight air pollution, TB, emphysema, and cigarette smoking.

THEY WATCH THEIR QUEUES, ANYWAY

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — Turks have become used to queuing for a number of purposes, but a new sort of queue has hit Izmir.

With an average of 28 deaths a day and only eight hearses, the dead have to line up for their last trip.

Past prices give inflation insight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A look at food prices in the decade since 1963, when hamburger cost 49 cents a pound and milk sold for 47 cents a half gallon, gives a clear picture of what inflation is all about.

And although federal economists issue month-by-month reports on inflation and the cost of living, sometimes more can be learned by looking at the dollar-and-cents impact on certain products.

As examples, take the soaring costs in four sample cities for such basics as bread, hamburger, milk and eggs. And add some onions.

All prices were August averages compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for New York City, Minneapolis, Houston, and San Francisco.

In 10 years, the price of hamburger has doubled, with eggs and onions increasing at nearly the same rate. Milk cost onethird more, and bread is 25 per cent higher.

Most of the inflation has come in the five years since 1968, the year the U.S.S. Pueblo was seized by North Korea and the moon was orbited for the first time.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says food prices will return to their old levels the day new Chevrolets cost $1,000.

However, a Chevrolet cost twice that much 10 years ago. At that time in the four cities, bread averaged 22 cents a loaf, hamburger cost 49 cents a pound, milk was 47 cents a half gallon, grade A large eggs were 53 cents a dozen and onions went for 13 cents a pound.

In 1968, the bread cost 24 cents; hamburger, 61 cents; milk, 51 cents; eggs were still about 53 cents; and onions were up to 15 cents.

In 1973, the bread cost 28 cents; hamburger, $1.06; milk, 64 cents; eggs, 96 cents; and the onions were 23 cents.

Opposition expected to bill

JEFFERSON CITY — Attorney General John C. Danforth's proposal to tighten Missouri's drunken driving laws will face tough sledding in the legislature, most observers feel.

Rep. Hal Lowenstein, a Kansas City Republican, will introduce what Danforth has described as "the toughest package of DWI legislation in the country" during the upcoming session of the Missouri General Assembly.

The proposed law would provide for the automatic revocation of a driver's license seven days after his arrest for driving while intoxicated, make it more difficult to obtain hardship driving privileges, and allow the authorities to impound the vehicle of a person caught driving while his license is suspended or revoked.

Proponents of the measure point to the legislature's passage of a law reducing, from .15 per cent to .10 per cent, the percentage of alcohol in the blood required for a driver to be declared drunk as a sign that these new measures will gain public, and legislative, acceptance.

However, a minor portion of the newly proposed legislation, a section that makes the assessment of 12 points apply to convictions for drunk driving under both state and local ordinances, failed during the last session. Current law provides for the assessment of six points for a conviction for driving while intoxicated in municipal courts. The assessment of 12 points within a one- year period allows state officials to revoke a driver's license for a year.

At least two legislators have expressed public opposition to Danforth's proposals. Rep. Kenneth Rothman, the House majority leader, said, "I would hate to see such a critical item in everyday life as a driver's license revoked in a one- man administrative decision without a day in court. Revoking the license, or impounding and selling a car would be punishing a man more severely than a lot of misdemeanors. It seems to me that if the case is good enough to justify impounding a car, it ought to be good enough to make a criminal case."

Rep. Fred Williams (D-St. Louis) also questioned the proposed law in a letter to the Attorney General.

As the law is proposed, the officer making an arrest for driving while intoxicated, driving under the influence of drugs, or leaving the scene of an accident would mark the offender's license to indicate that it would expire in seven days. The driver then would be required to request a hearing before the director of revenue during the seven day period. If the hearing were requested within the allotted time, the driver would receive a temporary permit to drive until the hearing date. If no request for a hearing were made, the license would be revoked automatically.

At the hearing, the director of revenue would make a determination of whether the license should be revoked based on the testimony of the arresting officer and a Breathalyzer test. Should the director rule against the driver, the revocation could be appealed to a circuit court.

It would be "theorically possible" that a person could be acquited of the drunk driving charge in court, but still lose his license, according to Danforth. "The administrative decision to revoke the license would not depend on criminal conviction of driving while intoxicated," the Attorney General said.

The proposed law also would place jurisdiction for hardship driving privileges only in circuit courts and require a notice to the director of revenue who would be represented in the proceedings. Under present law, hardship driving privileges may be obtained in both magistrate and circuit court, and there is no requirement that prior notice be given the revenue director.

The hardship driving privilege would not be granted more than once to any individual, and could not be issued to persons who were involved in accidents involving personal injury or property damage.

In the case of a person caught driving while his license was suspended or revoked, the arresting officer would be allowed to seize the vehicle as contraband. He would then notify the director of revenue, who would initiate a suit for the forfeiture of the vehicle. If the car were owned by someone other than the driver, the owner would be given notice and given the opportunity to regain the vehicle by contending that its illegal use was without his consent or knowledge.

Proceeds from the sale of impounded vehicles would go to county school funds.

No proof that cooler rooms are healthier

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's prescription for lower room temperatures to save energy has the backing of some leading doctors. But they say there are no real scientific studies to prove cooler rooms are healthier.

"It's the kind of thing family doctors say all the time. I don't know anybody who would quarrel with it," said Dr. George Reader, chairman of the Public Health Department at New York Hospital — Cornell Medical Center.

"He was wishing so — that it would be healthier. I heard him speak and I agree with him in general, but there is probably little hard data. No one has done a study that shows lowering temperature makes you healthier," Reader said. He added, however, that he thought lower temperatures might mean a slightly less risk of catching cold.

President Nixon said Wednesday night that he wanted the nation to lower temperatures in the home by six degrees to a daytime average of 68. He asked offices factories and stores to achieve the equivalent of a 10- degree reduction by lowering the thermostat or curtailing working hours.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Recently I was hospitalized for subacute bacterial endocarditis. It was explained as bacteria in the heart valve. My temperature was erratic and went as high as 102 degrees. I felt tired and listless all the time. After 11 days of intravenous penicillin, the symptoms disappeared. My temperature was normal and I feel fine. Could you please explain this disease more fully? What causes it or how do you get it? I was told it does not cause heart attacks. Is it contagious?

Dear Reader—Endocarditis means inflammation of the inside of the heart. Bacterial endocarditis merely identifies that bacteria are the cause. Germs lodge usually on the valve leaflets inside the heart and start an infection. Usually individuals who have this problem have had damage to the heart valve before, commonly from rheumatic heart disease. Birth defects of the heart also predispose to this problem. The infection that develops on the inside of the heart may cause no major damage or it can destroy the heart valve leaving the heart damaged even after the infection had been cured. Small pieces of tissue from the infected area can become dislodged inside the heart and be circulated to other parts of the body.

It's obviously a very important and serious disease when it occurs. Like most infections, it's treated with antibiotics. The choice of antibiotic medicine depends on what kind of germ is causing the problem. Large doses of antibiotics are commonly given until the infection has been eradicated. At that time, the temperature returns to normal and the patient recovers.

Because this is a serious disease, it deserves immediate treatment and even better, it should be prevented. For this reason, heart specialists ask individuals who have damage to their heart valves or birth defects of the heart, to take antibiotics any time they have a respiratory illness, an operation or a dental procedure. Even chewing vigorously will sometimes cause bacteria around the teeth to be dislodged into the blood stream. Then they are carried by the circulation to the heart and if you already have a defect the bacteria may lodge on the heart valve and set up the infection. Taking antibiotics at the time of dental procedures is a must for people with damaged valves or birth defects of the heart and simply having the teeth cleaned alone is a dental procedure. I have seen more than one case of bacterial endocarditis follow simple cleaning of the teeth which had been disregarded and the patient had failed to take the protective antibiotics that his doctor had recommended.

I want to make it clear that for normal, healthy people antibiotics for dental procedures are not necessary. The antibiotic protective measures to prevent bacterial endocarditis are for individuals who already have a problem, specifically, damaged heart valves or birth defects and of course anyone who has ever had bacterial endocarditis in the past.

Study made on women smokers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women who work outside the home have a higher smoking rate than housewives, a new government study shows.

The study also reports that:

—On the basis of marital status among women, the smoking rate was highest for those divorced or separated, lowest for widows.

—On the basis of education among women, smoking rates were highest for those who ended their education with some high school classes or with a high school diploma, lowest for those whose education was grade school or less.

—Fewer women were smoking in 1970, compared to 1966, but the reduction was not as much as that for men.

The study is a report on changes in women's smoking behavior, based on national surveys directed by the Public Health Service in 1966 and 1970. The analysis was made by Dorothy E. Green, a branch chief, and Daniel E. Nemzer, computer analyst, at the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health.

The smoking rate for U.S. adults, 21 years of age and over, fell from 42.2 per cent in 1966 to 36.2 per cent in 1970.

Among men, the smoking rate fell sharply, from 51.9 per cent to 42.3 per cent, the study reports. But for women, it fell only from 33.7 per cent to 30.5 per cent.

The analysis says that the smoking rate increased among single women and decreased among married women and adds as a possible explanation:

"Many single women are employed in offices, where they may be influenced by the higher smoking rates of men. A woman earning a salary may feel more free to spend it on a form of personal gratification like cigarettes.

"On the other hand, married women are likely to spend less time with people who smoke; some wives give up smoking during pregnancy to avoid possible damage to the fetus, or mothers may avoid smoking to set a good example for their children."

The statistics show that the smoking rate of 37 per cent for women employed outside the home remained unchanged from 1966 to 1970. But the rate among women not employed outside the home, primarily housewives, decreased from 32 per cent in 1966 to 27 per cent in 1970.

The study also takes note of the worry among women, as well as men, that they might gain weight if they stopped smoking.

But weight gain, although more likely to occur as the appetite improves, isn't inevitable, it says.

"In fact, about one in four who quits smoking loses weight," the report says. "It may be that when people change one habit to improve their health, they also have more confidence to conquer other habits."

House nearing vote on Alaska Pipeline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is nearing a vote on the Alaska Oil Pipeline bill, but the legislation is threatened by a controversy over an amendment affecting the Federal Trade Commission.

This amendment would give the FTC the power to obtain more information about the businesses it regulates.

Last Wednesday, opponents of the FTC proposal forced a delay in action on the bill, which is designed to clear the way for piping oil from Alaska's North Slope to the port city of Valdez on Alaska's southern coast.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., said that when the bill came up again he would move to have it sent back to a House-Senate conference committee to be stripped of the features sought by the FTC.

A vote was scheduled for today.

At issue are tacked-on amendments which would broaden the powers of the FTC and other regulatory agencies. Among other things, they would allow the agencies to conduct business surveys without getting approval of the Office of Management and Budget.

The FTC supports this because it has been trying since 1971 to get the budget office to approve a plan under which businesses in providing statistics, would break them down by product lines.

The agency contends that International Telephone & Telegraph, for instance, is one of the nation's largest producers of bakery goods, yet the statistics it provides the government do not reflect this.

Under present procedures the budget agency seeks public comment, including the reactions of the businesses involved, on proposals such as the socalled "product line reporting." It then has the option of vetoing the proposals.

Roy Ash, director of budget office, has said he will recommend that President Nixon veto the bill if it reaches him in its present form. The amendments reportedly were put on the pipeline measure in the first place because their supporters knew they would be vetoed if passed as a separate bill.

Supporters of the pipeline measure wrote the President last Friday that returning it to conference to remove the disputed sections would open up other areas, agreed to with difficulty by the conferees, and delay a start on the pipeline.

NEW YORK (AP) — World production of gold this year is expected to drop considerably even though its price is pushing another "gold rush," according to Gary Reibsamen, editor of "Metals Sourcebook," a newsletter on international developments in metals supply.

Gold shot up to over $100 an ounce this year, compared with $65 in 1972 and $40 in mid-1971. World output last year was 44.7 million ounces, down 3.3 per cent from 1971.
